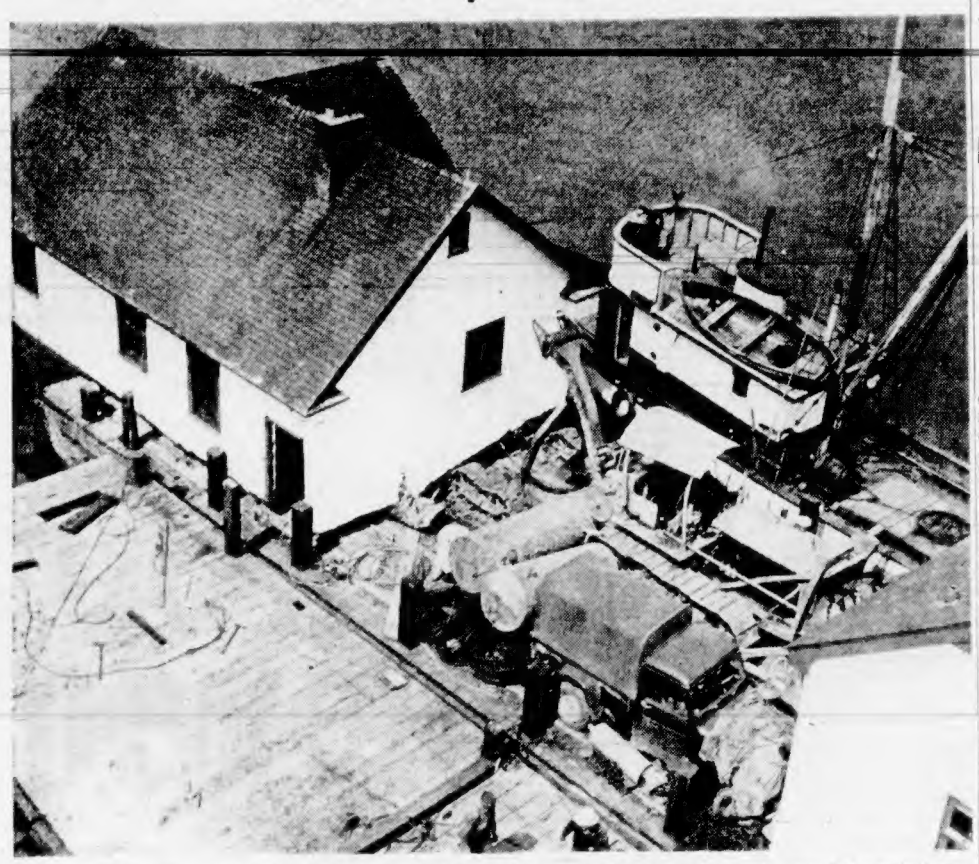
Homes Away from Home



It was moving day yesterday for the Tingstad Logging Company. Two houses were loaded on a big scow and moved from old logging operations on Sidney Island to new operations on Minstrel Island, along with caterpillar tractor, truck and other equipment. One of the houses is shown at upper left perched on the edge of the scow. The scow, property of Eakins Construction, Sidney and Vancouver, was towed by a fishpacker owned and skippered by E. Egeland.—(Lance Bewler photo.).

Plans Near Completion

Vast Lead-Zinc Deposit To Be Developed in North

Railway Included

OTTAWA (CP)—Northern Affairs Minister Lesage indicated Friday that plans are nearing completion for exploitation in northern Canada of one of the world's largest lead-zinc ore deposits.

He told the Commons during discussion of his department's estimates that he hopes the government and Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. will be able to make arrangements to develop the deposit, located at Pine Point on the south shore of Great Slave lake in the Northwest Territories.

The company estimates the area contains approximately 60,000,000 tons of lead-zinc ore. However, federal mining engineers say the deposit is much bigger. They say the company has drilled in excess of 500,000 feet to outline the ore body.

"We hope that the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company soon will see fit to have definite plans for the development and exploitation of this vast ore body," Mr. Lesage said. "We hope that it will be possible to work out with them some kind of understanding under which transportation facilities will be available to take the ore out."

PLAN RAIL LINK

Mr. Lesage said the present plan is to build a railway line—"in days not too far off"—from Grimshaw, end of steel in Alberta's Peace River area, to Pine Point, a distance of 300 to 400 miles. A railway would be the cheapest form of transportation in this area.

"We . . . still are discussing the economic implications of such a project," he said.

Federal mines officials said construction of a rail line to Pine point also would permit exploitation of other mineral resources in the Great Slave lake area, including copper. Other possible resources included gas west of Pine Point and oil west of Hay River.

Mr. Lesage disagreed with Opposition Leader Drew that the first step in the development of Canada's North should be to populate the area.

Mr. Drew said he was amazed to hear the minister say Thursday night that there must be jobs in the North before people will go there. If Canada's pioneers had waited for jobs to become available, Mr. Drew said, the Prairies would never have been developed.

Mr. Lesage said the key to economic development of the North is cheap transportation. That also permitted the development of the Canadian West.

"But there is a difference between the opening up of the West and the opening up of the North . . . Our forefathers could go to the West with this new means of transportation, (the CPR) open up the country and settle on farms with no more than their bare hands."

"The populating of the north is not an aim in itself; it is secondary," he said. "Really, it comes after the development of the immense natural resources."

No Chemistry About It

It's all in finger co-ordination, says Dr. Peter Mar, centre, as he demonstrates the finer art of consuming chop suey with chop sticks. Receiving professional instruction are Les Spencer, left, and Miss Catherine Windeyer, who were guests at a banquet held by the Vancouver Island branch of the Chemical Institute of Canada, last night at CAC Gardens. Atomic Submarine — Moon Reservations

Fiction Was Stranger than Truth

PARIS (Reuters)— Writers and scientists from all over the world are to gather in Paris May 25 to pay homage to Jules Verne, the father of modern science-fiction, who died 50 years ago.

They will come from every one of the 82 countries into whose languages Verne's 104 books have been translated. They will commemmorate one of the most famous explorers — who hardly ever left his armchair.

Scarcely a forecast by the bearded novelist has failed to materialize since he died in 1905 at 77.

The United States Navy last year named its first atomic submarine after the underwater craft Nautilus which figured in his book "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea."

Airliners now circle the globe in less than a week, far surpassing the exploit of Verne's British explorer, Phileas Fogg, in "Round the World in 80 Days."

An American travel agency is already accepting bookings for the first return trip from the earth to the moon, predicted by Jules Verne in "'Round the Moon."

In 1839, as a lad of 11, Verne smuggled himself aboard a schooner bound from the Breton port on Mantes for the Indies. Verne's quest was a coral necklace for his sweetheart.

But his father was waiting for him at the ship's first port of call, a few miles along the Atlantic coast. There, Jules' first venture into the unknown ended with a good whipping.

"I shall only travel in my dreams in future," he declared ruefully. And before he set foot abroad, he was to travel around the earth thousands of times in his imagination in the comfort of his study.

Unlike most writers of science-fiction, Verne based his predictions on careful calculations, which he constantly checked with French scholars. The writings of one of his helpers, mathematician Joseph Bertrand, who discovered differential calculus, today line the bookshelves of the U.S. submarine Nautilus.

Eat Your Troubles Away

Don't Drug Yourself To Sleep

Those who are undernourished and don't realize it will find a guide to better health and greater vigor in "Eat Your Troubles Away," latest work by Lelord Kordel, researcher and lecturer on nutrition, appearing regularly in The Daily Colonist.

BY LELORD KORDEL

There are millions who are tortured by insomnia. Are you one of those who must resort to various means—from counting sheep to the taking of sleeping tablets—to secure your needed rest?

Certainly a good many of you are familiar with this feeling of forlorn desperation. To see your night's rest snatched from your grasp . . . to face the approach of a new, hard day—without any rest—is torture indeed!

That is why, when I beheld the deep, hollow eye sockets and the mass of strain lines on the face of Mrs. M, I was not surprised to hear her say:

"I've tried everything to get to sleep."

Drugs Fail

She was a woman in her forties, but her older appearance was living proof of an incessant battle with insomnia.

"Drugs don't seem to help any more," she continued.

Investigating Mrs. M's complaint, I could see she had fallen into psychological reliance on drugs to put her to sleep, a reliance that often results in a form of chronic poisoning, a mild, continuous jag.

Sleep bought with drugs results in a morning stupor from which awakening is most difficult.

In most cases, sleeplessness can be traced to years of wrong, inadequate diet. The psychological habit-forming effect of sleeping pills must also be considered when insomnia is fought. That is why, along with suggesting a sleep-inducing diet, I filled Mrs. M's request for "something to take that would make me sleep."

I recommended that she purchase immediately high-potency organic calcium-mineral tablets and start taking them about one-half hour before she retired, swallowing them with a glass of buttermilk. This drink, with its high lactic-acid content, is helpful in itself.

I explained to Mrs. M she would have to include certain foods in her diet to build up the mineral deficiency that was robbing her of sleep.

Sleeping is controlled by a complex centre in the very depths of the brain. This sleep centre is regulated by the bloodstream — which delivers the only sleep inducers any healthy person ever needs. But it cannot "deliver the goods" if there is nothing to deliver.

Neutralized Germany 'Unrealistic'—Faure

PARIS (AP) — French Premier Edgar Faure came out Friday against the idea of a neutralized Germany as unrealistic. He said the proposed top-level conference of the Big Four should not halt West German rearmament.

Some diplomatic observers believe Russia's consent to a neutralized Austria, under the independence treaty to be signed in Vienna Sunday, may be designed to prepare the way for a similar offer to Germany.

Though many Frenchmen, fearful of a rearmed Germany, might welcome such a development, Faure told a press conference:

"I don't think this idea is realistic and I haven't seen that it has been put in a form that could be discussed now. Even for Austria, it seems the idea of neutralization has not been kept in the way first suggested. In any case, the problem is different for a country of Germany's importance."

Faure saw a barrier to the reunification of Germany — a prime topic for the Big Four — in the existence of two Germanies in two different security systems. But he said it is not insurmountable.

Ticket Threat

VANCOUVER (CP) — City prosecutor Stewart McMorran said Friday he has been instructed to prosecute all sales of advance tickets this year outside the Pacific National Exhibition grounds.

Mr. McMorran told the police commission he obtained clarification of the attorney-general's instructions during a recent visit to Victoria.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said in January that the government intended to enforce the law regarding lotteries.

Development Gap Assailed

OTTAWA (CP) — Howard Green (PC, Vancouver Quadra) Friday accused the government of leaving a big gap in Canada's development by allowing the wartime fleet of deep-sea vessels to fade away.

South Africans Organizing To Protest New Voting Curb

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Protest meetings were being organized Friday against the South African government's new move to reduce the voting rights of mixed-blood (colored) voters in Cape province.

At the same time, Finance Minister Eric Louw assailed Adlai Stevenson, U.S. Democratic party leader, for his criticism of the government's entire racial segregation program.

Stevenson expressed the hope in Johannesburg last Sunday that South Africans will "take heed lest fear lead them along the wrong path" in their treatment of the non-white population.

Speaking at Williston in Cape province Friday night, Louw retorted: "Such interference in our affairs by a distinguished visitor after a stay of only one week in Johannesburg makes a very unfortunate impression."

He said Stevenson had heard only one side of the country's political problems which "certainly does not qualify him" to air views on the government's program.

The new bill of Premier Johannes Strijdom aimed at removing mixed-blood voters from the white electoral roll will be debated in the lower house May 23, it was announced Friday.

Meantime, the opposition was reported organizing a country-wide campaign against the bill.

The bill proposes to increase the Senate from 48 to 89 members. This would ensure the government the two-thirds majority of both House of Parliament required by the constitution to alter voting rights of the mixed-blood voters.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UP) — Letters two feet high appeared recently on a wall of the Johannesburg public library, restricted to whites, saying: "Let us black folks read." Words were ordered removed. Solvents were ineffective; letters finally were sandblasted off. But Friday there was new lettering in the same place saying: "We black folks ain't reading yet."

Daughter Dies

Woman, Mother Leap from Train

NEW YORK (AP)—A young mother plunged to her death from a Chicago-New York express train Friday. Her mother disappeared from the train about the same time.

Hours later, state police found the mother, Celia Freeman, 56, of New York, wandering along a highway near the railroad—dirty, dishevelled and incoherent.

The daughter, about 20, later was identified as Ruth Papazian.

The mother and daughter boarded the train at East Cleveland. Trainmen said that as the train sped down the Hudson valley from Albany, N.Y., they restrained the pair several times from opening outside vestibule doors.

South of Poughkeepsie, a train attendant found a vestibule door open. Moments later another door was found open, on the opposite side of the train and in another car.

Just then a lounge car attendant at the rear of the train glanced out and saw a woman, who proved to be young Mrs. Papazian, sprawled alongside the tracks. Police quickly located the mortally injured girl. She died in hospital.

The mother was found later.

Beat Your Bride . . . — . . . Or She'll Kill You

Danger Lurks at Devil's Gate in Year of Fire Horse

TOKYO (UP)—So yesterday was Friday the 13th. You think it's unlucky? Come to Japan and you'd feel lucky, if Friday the 13th was all you had to worry about.

In Japan every day is unlucky if you're facing northeast, for instance.

The ancient land of Nippon is as full of superstitions as it is of people.

Northeast is the direction of the "Devil's Gate."

It's such a bad direction that for 1,200 years a special prayer has been uttered every year by 100 priests in Kyoto to pacify the northeast.

A husband told his wife they needed an extra room on their tiny house for their two growing daughters.

The mother consulted the "Fox God" and was told not to build for six months or risk disaster. So the family went on living like sardines.

Girls born in the year of the "Fire Horse" are doomed to spinsterhood. Such women, ancient sages say, are as wild as horses and very likely to kill any man who marries them.

Fortunately, the "Fire Horse" year comes up only once every 60 years.

For a man to beat his bride guarantees the best of luck. It promises her many children.

Four is the unlucky number. It's pronounced "she" in Japanese, the same way the word for "death" is pronounced.

A bullfinch brings good luck to its owner. Bullfinches are sold once a year in a special Tokyo shrine. If the bird tricks its owner and brings bad luck instead of good, he can return it to the altar and get a new one free.

The dangerous age for men is 42, for women 33. Those are years of calamity. Some people, when they reach those ages, spend most of the year in a temple praying for survival.

Priests in one ancient temple own more than 200 fans measuring six and a half feet in length. In case of fire, each priest grabs a fan and waves it madly shouting, "Confusion to the sparks!"

They claim they extinguished fires that way in 1876 and 1926.

Japanese children once held a special ceremony in memory of departed insects. They felt sorry for the butterflies they had captured and impaled in their collections. After the ceremony, the children said they slept better.

And Geisha girls go to temples once a year to pray for the souls of departed cats that furnished the catgut for the strings of their musical instruments.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"TIME we had some rules against shacks," says Felix Glib. He is my neighbor, in an unorganized area.

"Why" I always ask him.

"Because they're unsightly. They lower the value of my house."

"Didn't you know about the shacks when you moved into the district?"

"Yes," says Felix Glib, "but the district has grown up now. We should make some laws against these squatters who are turning it into a shanty-town slum."

"What did you live in when you came to the district?"

"A cottage. Or maybe you could call it a cabin."

"How many rooms?"

"One. I'm a pioneer, and proud of it. You take this modern generation, now . . ."

"Any rules against cabins, when you came out here?"

"We didn't need rules against cabins. We were pioneers. I lived in a cabin and built this house."

"Well, Felix," I asked him, "why do you want rules now?"

"I've worked hard to build up this property, son," he said. "Do you think I want my investment ruined by a bunch of fly-by-night strangers who put up unsightly sheds next door? Why, a real estate man told me the other day, that barn next door takes $2,000 off the value of my place. Nope, what we need here is a municipality, with building inspectors, plumbing inspectors and an inspector of nuisances who can order these eyesores demolished."

"The municipality would start off by ordering you to get rid of your chickens," I said. "Then the nuisance inspector would give you a week to bury that compost heap. It's right against the neighbor's fence, and you've been filling it for years with decayed fish heads, dead rats and cabbages run to seed. With a good wind you can smell it from Colwood Corner."

"I can't persuade Felix to be more charitable. He lived in a shack for years. But now that he has his house, he wants the shack-dwellers evicted.

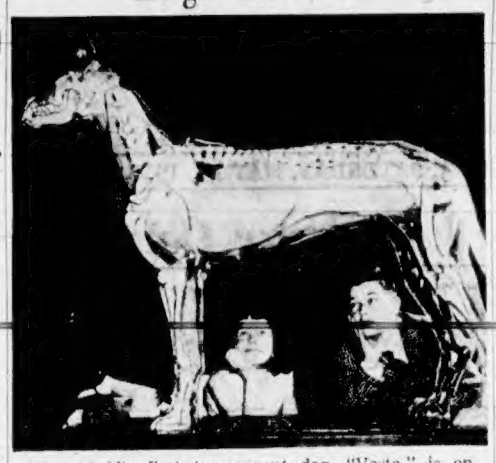
* * *

I'm opposed to Felix all the way. Surely every city needs a safety-valve district, where people can live as they like (within reason) free from meddlers.

His counterpart in the field of morals is the reformed sinner who becomes the worst bigot of all. He's a familiar figure. In his day he has been a no-good nuisance to everyone. With some help, he manages to lead a better life. But when someone else asks for a hand out of the same swamp, what happens?

The reformed sinner pushes him back in. Unless someone is looking. Then, maybe, he puts on the big life-saving act.

Insight Into Fido



The world's first transparent dog, "Vesta," is on display at the American Museum of Natural History in New York. "Vesta" is an authentic, life-sized plastic replica of a female great dane. It is mounted on a revolving pedestal and lights up to show the skeleton, teeth and internal organs of a living dog.

Government Not Taking Over B.C. Hospitals, Martin Says

Health Minister Eric Martin yesterday strongly denied a report that the government may take over B.C. hospitals and make their staffs into civil servants.

"How could we interfere with the operation of hospitals?" he asked. "They are owned and operated by private societies."

The suggestion was offered originally as a result of increased wage costs in hospitals. The government has notified hospital boards that any increases over the 1954 level must be borne entirely by the hospitals.

Officials of BCHIS said it would cost the government millions of dollars to take over about 80 hospitals by expropriation. One said the whole idea was "absurd."

Mr. Martin reiterated the wage freeze order stating that hospitals can't "continually call on the provincial treasury." He said "a halt must be called somewhere."

Referring to wage increases contracted by hospital boards this year, Mr. Martin said:

"We are not a contracting party and yet we have to keep paying. The situation is fantastic."

UP 150 PER CENT

He said hospital workers got one increase amounting to $2,500,000 during the past two years and are now asking for another $1,000,000. He said wages have gone up 150 per cent in the last six years.

It is expected most major B.C. hospitals will appeal the order making them alone responsible for 1955 wage boosts. Possibility of staff cuts faces many who have already been committed to 1955 pay increases.

Official Not Talking About Chinook Plans

Lieut.-Col. George Paulin, president of Black Ball Line Ltd. in Victoria, refused to comment yesterday on a report from Vancouver that the company will not change its Victoria-Port Angeles service.

Asked if the report, which quoted a Vancouver spokesman of the firm, was correct, he said, "I don't know . . . no comment whatever."

Colonel Paulin said there was "no truth" in a charge by Victoria transportation officials and other business men, reported in The Daily Colonist yesterday, that the Chinook will not return to the run from here to Port Angeles.

However, he would not comment on the vessel's future schedules.

* * *

The business men said Chinook will either go on the Nanaimo-Vancouver run or start a service from Sidney to the B.C. Mainland.

They said that expanded Nanaimo-Vancouver service was more likely as the CPR and Black Ball Line engaged in an "all-out war" for booming up-island business.

CPR officials said they had no plans to eliminate the service's three daily round trips between Victoria and Port Angeles from May 1 to September 24.

Spokesmen for the Victoria Chamber of Commerce said they hoped to meet Black Ball line officials next week to discuss future plans for the Chinook.

Langford Groups To Arrange Fair

A meeting of Langford organizations will be held at the community hall, June 7, to make further plans for the Langford district fair and carnival July 29 and 30.

Transfer Won't Cut Volume

Volume of freight shipments to Victoria on vessels of the B.C. Coast Steamship Service will not be changed by a change in freight handling methods, CPR officials said yesterday.

Effective June 1, "odd lots" —freight shipments of less than a carload—will be transfered from jurisdiction of BCCS to the CPR express department.

The change was described as "a paper move of very minor nature . . . a tightening up within the company with an eye to economy."

The officials said "a couple of junior employees" among the eight BCCS freight employees here will not be retained. These workers may be taken back into the company "later on," it added. Majority of other employees have already applied for transfer to the express department.

Workers will not lose pension benefits or pass privileges and the CPR does not plan to close any offices.

Rose Pests Emerge Soon

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Any time we get to feeling too complacent and self-satisfied over the way we can grow roses on Vancouver Island, I find that it is a salutary exercise to consider the fact that one of the finest rose shows in Canada is held in Edmonton.

Under the guiding genius of Mr. Walter Wilson, manager of the Capitol Theatre there, the Edmonton Rose Society has worked out ways and means of bringing their rose bushes safely through sub-zero winter weather which are as ingenious as they are efficient.

To compensate for 40-below temperatures and howling blizzards, the gardeners of Edmonton don't have nearly the trouble we do with insect pests and rose diseases—probably because the pests and disease spores have some difficulty in surviving the winters.

ENEMY NO. 1

The greenfly takes top priority among the enemies of our roses from now until autumn. It sucks the sap from the young shoots, flower stems and buds, making a disgusting mess of them in the process, and unless regular spraying or dusting is undertaken, you will have weaker growth, distorted flowers, and the loss of many buds.

Never overfeed your roses, whether with dry fertilizer or barnyard manure. Too much easy living produces soft, sappy growth which greenfly and other pests will choose in preference to strong, hard growth and leathery foliage.

Spring and early summer are the peak periods for greenfly. Hot weather encourages rapid breeding, and believe me, rabbits have nothing on the greenfly when conditions are favorable. Spraying is somewhat more effective than dusting, although not quite so convenient, and should be carried out as soon as the infestation is noticed, and repeated a few days later, as the new hatch is born. Even then, more greenflies will arrive from weeds and unsprayed plants, and often they are transferred by ants from one plant to another.

WHICH IS BEST?

What is the best spray for greenfly? Derris is non-poisonous to humans, and a good choice where there is any danger of young children exploring the garden medicine chest. It is rather slow in action, however, and this is a disadvantage in dealing with greenfly, for the females can bring forth living young even in their death throes.

Nicotine is quicker, but won't work in cool weather. DDT is almost useless against greenfly, although excellent against thrips and caterpillars. Of all the insecticidal sprays available today, I think that Black Leaf Malathion comes closest to the gardener's ideal — something deadly to nearly all forms of insect life, yet reasonably safe to use.

Thrips or thunder flies are slender yellow or brown insects less than one-tenth of an inch long, and difficult to spot. They seem to select principally the pink and white roses, seldom the yellow ones, and almost never the red varieties. Malathion does an excellent job against these pests.

NO PROBLEM

Caterpillars are seldom serious, and usually handpicking will give sufficient control.

The familiar frog-hopper or cuckoo-spit is a major pest on lavender and geums, and will often move in on the roses in June. A light spray won't touch this fellow, as he is protected by his blob of spittle. You have to hit him with a really forceful spray, hard enough to wash away the frothy mass. If there are only a few, you can handpick the little green nymph out of his hiding place, although this is rather a messy business.

Navy Training 7,000 Men In 25 Ships

More than 7,000 officers and men of the Canadian navy and reserve divisions will man 25 ships of the fleet for summer training in the Atlantic, Pacific and Great Lakes.

Their ships will range from patrol craft to cruisers.

Tuesday, the cruiser Quebec leaves Halifax with the destroyers Huron and Iroquois with cadets of the UNTD from Victoria aboard. Ports of call include Philadelphia, one of the biggest naval establishments in the United States, and San Juan in Puerto Rico.

Later this month, three frigates, Stettler, St. Therese and the newly-arrived Sussexvale, sail from Esquimalt to San Francisco with another big group of UNTD trainees.

Chair, Gas More Humane

Parliament Group To Urge Alternative to Hanging

OTTAWA (CP)—A Commons-Senate committee this session will recommend to the government that the death penalty for murder be retained as punishment in Canada but that another form of execution be substituted for hanging.

A high informant said the Joint parliamentary committee on capital and corporal punishment will urge that either electrocution or the gas chamber be used to execute condemned persons.

The committee will recommend abolition of hanging on grounds that it belongs to the middle ages. Its report will say that electrocution or the gas chamber is more humane.

The committee Thursday held its last public meeting in a two-year study to determine whether a different form of execution should be employed if the death penalty is to be retained. It now will hold a series of closed sessions to prepare its report to Parliament.

Bulk of the evidence submitted to the committee has been in opposition to capital punishment. Nearly all witnesses recommended that if the death penalty is to be retained a less brutal form of execution should be used.

The witnesses most violently opposed to capital punishment were psychiatrists, welfare workers, sociologists, criminologists and representatives of public bodies. Those who wanted it retained included police officers, judges, crown attorneys and some prison officials.

The main submission of witnesses recommending abolition of capital punishment was that it is not a deterrent to murder. Police officials feared the lives of law enforcement officers would be further endangered if criminals knew that the maximum penalty for murder was life imprisonment.

Belgian Defence Costs $360,000,000

BRUSSELS (AP)—The Belgian House of Representatives Thursday approved a national defence budget of 18,000,000,000 Belgian francs ($360,000,000). It provides for two active army divisions, an air force of about 400 planes and a small navy of minesweepers.

Top Soviet Leaders Planning to Visit Tito

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government announced today that Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin will call on President Tito of Yugoslavia in Belgrade late this month.

The meeting would be before the expected "summit" conference of Bulganin, Prime Minister Eden, President Eisenhower and Premier Faure.

Tito's independent Communist state has been estranged from the Kremlin since its break with the Soviet-directed Comiform in 1948.

Tito was accused by the Moscow-led Comiform in 1948 of following "nationalistic" policies rather than the line of international communism.

In recent months, however, there has been a new attitude with both sides seeking to create normal relations. Tito has never ceased to insist on sticking up for his independence.

Ouster of Finlayson 'Unconstitutional'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Progressive Conservative Association in a statement issued Friday night described as "ill-advised and unconstitutional" the recent ouster of their provincial leader from a meeting of the national executive of the party.

The statement also attacked the B.C. federal council set up by the national party to handle the party's federal affairs in the province.

"The national officers' action of last Saturday in evicting the provincial leader because he presented B.C.'s case, in effect means that some of the national officers are prepared to discard the elected B.C. Progressive Conservative Association and to replace it with the appointed B.C. federal council," the statement said.

"This is a group not provided for in the constitution."

Singapore Violence In Check

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Police broke up bands of roving strikers Friday as this British crown colony went through a second straight day of violence caused by labor and student unrest that has cost at least three lives.

British armored cars patrolled the streets of the tense city. But a high authority described reports that thousands of British troops are at battle stations as "absolute nonsense."

He said the troops are being held in reserve and have not been used against the rioters. One authority said there are only a few.

Police said 10 strikers were arrested when a crowd broke a window of a British building when police refused to let them march into a road. Chinese students, who were in the forefront of Thursday's violence, were relatively quiet and did not march with the strikers.

Asking for Trouble

THE sudden storm which overtook several Vancouver yachtsmen last week-end, and in which some barely escaped drowning, contained a stern warning for all boat owners in these waters. Rescue work under extreme difficulties was carried out in darkness, and it has been stated since that the rescuers were hampered by the fact that some of the yachtsmen had no navigation lights of any kind—not even flashlights. Yet this was a race in which under any conditions of weather there was every possibility of the yachts being at sea in busy shipping lanes after darkness had fallen.

Privately-operated boats of all kinds, sail and power, are required by law to obey the same rules-of-the-road-at-sea as commercial ships. These regulations were not inserted to make things difficult for those who sail and cruise for pleasure but to save life and prevent collisions, in which smaller craft are bound to come off second best. They are more important in this respect than the lights required on automobiles and bicycles because the conditions under which traffic is regulated at sea are much more difficult than those pertaining on land.

It is foolhardiness of the worst kind for any boat to be out at night without so much as a flashlight to signal for help if that should be needed—as it so often is with small boats, at times ill-equipped. Intention to return before nightfall is no guarantee that one will be able to do so. Lack of wind, engine failure, contrary tides or bad estimation of the time it will take to get back may keep a boat out after dark, bringing constant danger of being run down. This sort of thing is not a remote possibility with which anyone can afford to take chances. It happens times without number every year, sometimes with tragic results, as in the case of three boys who lost their lives in Vancouver harbor a few months ago.

Even a trip which begins in the morning may not end, through one cause or another, until after dark; and if bad weather sets in as well a small boat may have to signal for help. For that reason a reliable flashlight at the very least should be carried at all times. Any boat owner who neglects that simple precaution risks his life and the lives of any who may be with him.

U.S. Forces in Canada

A PROBLEM said to be worrying Ottawa these days is the position of American troops in this country in the event the U.S. went to war and Canada stayed neutral. Theoretically the Americans would be asked to pack up and leave in order not to embroil Canada, or else face internment. One just cannot imagine either of these courses being followed, the risk to this country would be too great; yet it was such consideration that caused the late Mr. Mackenzie King to hesitate when the Commonwealth air training plan was first mooted before the war. National sovereignty, some of which is lost when outside troops are stationed in a country, is quite properly a thing to be guarded jealously.

Some of Ottawa's worry is of its own making. The more Canada depends on U.S. forces to protect its home front from the north the more deeply it becomes involved. A nation any more than an individual cannot eat its cake and have it. So long as Canada is unable or unwilling to raise enough troops for its own defence, and the present situation stems in substantial part at least from political reluctance to institute compulsory military service, so long will it be in some respects at the mercy of the ally who fills the gap. Having accepted that aid it would be neither logical nor practical to give the U.S. troops an exit notice if and when trouble did arrive.

Foreign forces stationed in another country tend to assume for themselves the role of occupation troops, which is another aspect not comforting to Canadian pride. And the defence of the Canadian northland is increasingly being placed in the hands of Americans. It is quite illusory therefore to conclude that the alliance can be abruptly cut should war take place, the very reason in the first place for their presence in Canada. No matter what international custom demands abandonment of the Canadian defences, which is what departure or internment would mean, is simply not feasible. In any case no enemy at war with the U.S. is likely to accept a sudden protestation of neutrality on the part of Canada. If in its innocence this is what Ottawa contemplates, however, why are U.S. troops in Canada at all?

Three General Elections

WITH three of the 10 provinces committed to general elections and a fourth believed likely to take that course, Canada appears to be in for a politically active summer. Prince Edward Island, Ontario and Alberta have announced definite plans for an early reference at the polls. In Newfoundland the Smallwood regime may reach a similar decision, if observers there are correct in their predictions. British Columbia, with a provincial administration now in midterm, need not go to the polls for two years yet, and that could be three if the administration waits out its full term. The custom, however, is to appeal in the fourth completed year.

From the provincial elections already called, there will be a test of public opinion in the Maritimes, Ontario and on the Prairies; of which the Ontario reference will likely attract the chief interest, in view of its closer relationship to federal issues. Premier Frost has announced the general election there for "early in June," with the precise date to be settled yet. Prince Edward Island will precede that with polling on May 25, according to Premier Matheson. Premier Manning, in Alberta, sprang a surprise this week when he announced an immediate Alberta test "at the earliest date possible."

The provincial issues in all three instances are separate, but while germane to the local scene, they inevitably will range farther afield. No election in the Maritimes has ever been conducted yet without reference to federal policy. The same is probably true of the Ontario test, and as it is the most populous province the election there will be watched with considerable interest across the country. The Alberta reference begins on a local theme, but it is not likely to end there. All in all, it would seem that May and June will witness the opening of a political round in Canada that may last over into autumn.

Speaking for the British Columbia government, Premier Bennett has indicated that the administration does not expect to go to the polls until 1957 or 1958; so British Columbia electors will watch the rostrums from the sidelines for the present at least

Interpreting the News

The Communist Rigamarole

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

THE Russians have moved cleverly to maintain freedom of action in their current peace offensive while setting up their NATO-like military organization among the satellites.

The organization is made necessary, they said, by the impending rearmament of West Germany. But they stand ready to dissolve it if Western Europe will only agree to join them in an all-European collective security system.

For their part, the Allies don't seem to be much worried about it either way. Russian control of the satellite armies is nothing new. It was expected all the time that Russia would go through some rigamarole to avoid living up to her treaty commitments to withdraw her troops from Hungary and Romania when an Austrian state treaty is signed.

* * *

Indeed, the Allies were reported considering an idea for using the new organization in discussions of disarmament at the projected Big Four conference. Under this idea, instead of aiming directly at disarmament, which would halt West German rearmament just when its prospect seems to be putting some pressure behind the movement for negotiated settlements, a proposal may be made for halting the arms race at agreed levels for the two blocs, with the two unified commands supervising.

Such an idea doesn't seem to have much chance with the Russians, whose chief objective in all the manoeuvring is to prevent, one way or another, the creation of a West German army. The collective security idea itself was designed for that, and rejected by the Allies because of it.

* * *

The Allies are, however, morally bound to produce some platform planks on the various issues the conference will take up, if for no other purpose than to scotch the Communist propaganda line.

That line, as laid down by Stalin interpreting the policies of Lenin, is as follows:

"We Communists create slogans for the masses. Treaties embodying fresh groupings of forces with an eye to war are termed 'peace treaties.' The signing of them is always effected to the accompaniment of the pipings of 'peaceful alliances.' The opposition will not accept our proposals; that shows how 'genuine' is their love of peace."

"Poor devils—all of them behind bars"

Steel for B.C.

Gerald Waring

By FRANK KELLEY

MINING of iron and smelting of steel were topics of much interest hereabouts over 50 years ago. From the time surveyors reported mass deposits of iron ore near the headwaters of the Gordon River the interest has persisted. Mineral claims were financed by an Old Country syndicate, and great things for Vancouver Island were envisaged by the holders.

While the Old Country interests were completing their commitments to government, the U.S. government decided on a program to add tonnage to its naval fleet, and asked operators of shipyards to submit contract prices for construction. Seattle was acquiring what was to become known as the "Seattle spirit" at the time, which was to spark a lot of civic pride when other communities of Washington State were making bids for public attention.

There was a shipyard there, too, the operator of which was an Irishman named Moran. He wanted to build one of those war vessels; and civic fathers of the Puget Sound port lined up behind him and agreed to supply funds sufficient to make up the difference between the lowest bids submitted and the amount which Moran figured a vessel built to the specifications would cost in Seattle.

* * *

To make a long story short Seattle got a lot of nation-wide publicity, the U.S. Navy got a ship that figured satisfactorily in the Spanish-American War while Moran kept his plant and Seattle shipwrights busy for a considerable time.

That "Seattle spirit," was also responsible for a flurry of mining activity on the B.C. coast. Magnetic iron ore on Texada Island was found to be ideal for making the special grade of steel required for naval ship construction. So iron ore from Texada went to the Irondale smelter near Port Townsend.

The use of B.C. iron ore for the manufacture of a superior grade of steel caused some southern Vancouver Islanders to indulge in dreams of wealth. Prospectors were grubstaked and iron-ore bodies were staked in many sections of the Island and along the B.C. coast. These, being magnetite, all presented the same problem. Our ores of iron tested all proved refractory and difficult to convert into the desired commercial medium, pig-iron, which meant an intensive search for a low grade of ore, like limonite or "bog-iron." No low-grade iron ore with the exception of a deposit at Quatsino could be found. This became the property of the Irondale plant and subsequently was vested in U.S. Steel

* * *

Apparently there is a vast amount of iron ore, mainly magnetic, in coast districts. Being refractory it is much too expensive to convert economically, needs cheaply-produced low grade ores for fluxing purposes. Private interests will think twice before taking on such a costly experiment; while the suggestion of government subsidies might not mean a real solution.

An old mining friend of the long ago believed that our governments, federal and provincial, might spend some money intelligently in devising ways and means in government laboratories to make our magnetic iron ores metallurgically profitable without adding to the cost of production by importing the necessary flux from other lands. Steel made from B.C. iron ores could not compete, it is said, with the article smelted from deposits of Ontario and Labrador, which can be manufactured competitively by tested processes. Surely our metallurgists will solve the problem—some day.

Reports from Ottawa

THE Senate drug committee may not finish its work this session, but at least an interim report will be made which promises to say some biting things about our social sores. And morals.

One of the main points the solons will make is that you can trace many individual cases of drug addiction right back to unsatisfactory home life. People don't become addicts without a reason, even though the motivation may be a subconscious one.

The committee, headed by Sen. Tom Reid, met more than 150 addicts during its Easter recess hearings in Vancouver. These sittings were held in private, and a number of those who were or had been on the stuff opened up to the senators.

In many cases the pattern was the same; upbringing in homes broken by divorce, rent by quarrels, sunk in alcoholism, clouded by illegitimacy, harassed by money troubles or cold to the psychological needs of children. These social festers foster delinquency, which the senators almost invariably found in the case histories of addicts.

* * *

Without presuming to write the senators' report for them, it's easy to see that the complete answer to the problem—and with 2,300 known addicts in Canada it is a problem—is not merely punitive or clinical. It must be prophylactic as well.

What's the use sending a man to jail for succumbing to a psychological demand for something to salve the wounds of the spirit? What's the use of medical treatment unless you also exorcise that which made him turn to drugs, and which may well turn him back again after he has been released from hospital as cured?

Prophylaxis, or protection against disease, is a social rather than a medical problem in relation to drug addiction. Wipe out the environmental factors which lead to juvenile delinquency and you'll pretty well wipe out drug addiction and other social problems as well. That, of course, will be immeasurably more difficult to do than to write.

* * *

The committee of 23 senators is thinking in terms of changes in the laws which apply to addicts. The solons thoroughly appreciate the inadequacy of present legislation and present methods, and will make definite recommendatations to the government.

What the recommendations will be won't be finally decided until the committee completes its hearings. Still to be heard are four important witnesses: Charles Vaille of France, president of the United Nations commission on narcotics; H. Walker of Britain, member of the commission; Dr. Harris Isbell, superintendent of the hospital at Lexington, Ky., where 1,200 addicts are receiving treatment, and U.S. narcotics commissioner Herbert Anslinger, who has taken the position in the past that addicts are criminals and should be treated as such.

However, the picture the committee is getting isn't all black. For instance, the senators found no signs that teenagers are becoming addicts, despite scare stories to that effect. And it met the occasional former addicts who is off the stuff for good. One man hadn't touched it in eight years. He's built a new life, married, and has a child. The past is buried. He doesn't need heroin any more.

Language That Gobbles

(From The Toronto Telegram)

TO get the gobbledegook out of official communications, the U.S. General Services Administration has issued a pamphlet entitled "Plain Letters." It says: "Needless words pile up needless costs, and foggy meanings exact their tolls from the tax bin." True, but why use all these needless words, when "wordiness and obscurity cost money" would have sufficed? And why, in decrying gobbledegook, use such gobbledegook as "foggy meanings exact their toll from the tax bin"?

In a foreword to the pamphlet, Dr. Wayne C. Grover says: "Gobbledegook is not an inherited characteristic, born into people destined to work for the government. It is acquired largely because we work surrounded by the terminology of law and resolutions . . ." This is taking toll from the tax bin. Why not say, "addiction to gobbledegook is not inherited, it is acquired through exposure to legal and legislative terms"?

The word "gobbledegook," or "gobbledegook," is a newcomer to the language. It was coined by Maury Maverick, a Texas member of the House of Representatives, to describe talk which sounded like the conversation of turkeys. According to Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary, it means "inflated, involved, and obscure verbiage characteristic of the pronouncements of officialdom." And if that isn't gobbledegook, what is?

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Almost everything for the house is advertised these days as "exciting" but who wants to go home at the end of a hard day and get excited by the refrigerator?

* * *

The mayor of Madison, Wisc., was rash enough to describe a house designed by the peppery Frank Lloyd Wright as "interesting but not beautiful." F. L. W. snapped back, "I might say the same for the mayor."

* * *

An elderly lady received $500 from her insurance company as compensation for the loss of her wristwatch. To her chagrin, not long afterwards she discovered the watch at the bottom of her clothes closet. After much soul-searching on the proper course to take, she wrote to the insurance company: "I thought it wrong to keep both the watch and the money, so I am sure you will be pleased to know that I have sent the $500 to the National Cancer Fund."

* * *

The manager was strolling through the cashier's cage when he spied an unfamiliar character briskly counting thousand-dollar bills. "You look like a bright young fellow," commented the manager. "Where did you receive your financial training?"

"Yale," said the character.

"Fine," boomed the manager, "and what did you say your name was?"

"Yohnson."

Under the Dome

By RAY BAINES
Colonist Legislative Reporter

TWO prominent Canadian political figures, one a Social Credit premier and the other a Liberal cabinet minister, seemed strangely in agreement about a very broad subject this week.

They are Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Northern Affairs Minister Jean Lesage, who both talked about Canada's northland.

They both said its potential was vast, its exploration essential and its development inevitable. They agreed that transportation was the key to northern development. They both felt that federal-provincial co-operation was a necessary factor in such development.

* * *

Premier Bennett was the first to note that "our eyes are north." He felt that the Yukon and Northwest Territories bordering the western provinces were the only real north as far as settlement was concerned. He said B.C.'s extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway into the Peace River country would help open up the rich northland, abundant in oil, metals and agricultural lands.

* * *

Mr. Lesage didn't say anything about the PGE but he did say "transportation is the key to edonomic development" and noted that there were no railways in the Northwest Territories. He referred to the "unquenchable courage" of the pioneer CPR and CNR railway builders who pushed west into a then unknown quantity. He felt the same kind of courage in a northern trek would have the effect of "welding Canada into a single economic unit." He said it would need co-operation.

* * *

Of course, Premier Bennett's idea of co-operation is for the federal government to pay half the cost of pushing the PGE north. Mr. Lesage may not have meant exactly that.

In any case, they did agree that all that wealth lying up there is just waiting to be mined and drilled.

They were both making political speeches, the premier through the press to the public and Mr. Lesage to the Laurier Club.

* * *

There is another way in which they partially agreed. Mr. Lesage drew applause from his audience when he referred to Sir Wilfred Laurier's famous quotation about the western expansion of Canada. In effect, the great Liberal statesman said this to his cautious critics: This is not a time for deliberation, for consideration, for delay; this is a time for action. Premier Bennett believes this principle applies today because he has gone ahead on such plans as the Kaiser dam without caution, deliberation and consideration, according to federal authorities who think the Columbia River development needs two years of planning. Come to think of it, Mr. Lesage called the Kaiser project "premature".

But it is still pretty hard for the average layman to make up his mind. I for one would like to have a long talk with a hydro engineer who has studied the whole question and isn't working for either Mr. Sommers or Mr. Lesage.

* * *

But everyone agreed about the north, anyway. One well-known former B.C. political figure rose to new oratorical heights in his introduction of Mr. Lesage with a metaphorical word picture of the north that made you practically taste the oil.

The vision of a vast area which was "throbbing and pulsating with the birth-pangs of economic development" and "ablaze with floods of oil and gas" made me want to run for a mid-wife and a fireman at the same time. My experience turned to a dreamy reverie of northern prosperity, however, when the speaker said the "silent wastes" had turned into a "melody".

* * *

Mr. Lesage was sure that the "Liberals of Victoria as the Liberals of Canada would see the great future in the north that Laurier saw in the west."

They might see the great future but there's little doubt they don't go along with Premier Bennett's plans to achieve it. In fact not so long ago they made a nice job of convincing the premier, through Victoria MLA George Gregory, that a lot of other Victoria people apparently don't go along with some of his plans.

* * *

There was another subject on which the Laurier Club and Premier Bennett didn't see eye to eye. Oddly enough this is on the subject of the Liberal party. And who is better qualified than the Laurier Club to speak on this subject?

Chairman Arthur Ash was cheered when he assured Mr. Lesage that the Liberal Party in B.C. was far from dead. Looking sideways at the dynamic federal minister, Mr. Ash implied, almost apologetically, that the present situation was nothing more than a temporary set-back.

But who are you to believe? Just a couple of weeks ago Premier Bennett said "nobody, but nobody" would vote Liberal in the next B.C. general election and he, of course, is prejudiced.

Letters to the Editor

Bombs and Weather

I find it extremely significant that in the May 11 issue of your good paper there appears, exactly opposite your editorial entitled "Tourist Trade Losing Ground," an excellent letter from a Mr. Raeburn, who lists several businesses, local ones, which have recently had to be discontinued on account of the appalling change in our weather.

I too read the scientific article indicating that the atom bomb tests are responsible for continued cloud, rain and cold; and I am very much afraid that I too am going to have to sell my property and move to a warmer climates.

It seems to me that unless the press and the chambers of commerce head a powerful protest, which the public should back en masse, that this bomb test nonsence be stopped, all tourist trade and all summer businesses throughout affected areas will be permantly wiped out. And soon.

The Hunter Ballot

In the Colonist of May 10 I read: "Toronto Too Big to Fight, Ballot Inventor Decides." Does that mean Mr. Hunter, clerk of Victoria, is going to let Toronto officials get away with his invention?

The very fact that, as the report states, the candidates listed included "Brent Wharrie Murdoch, "Harold Montague Doggin," "Claude Lionel Horrison" and Millard Moonly," to my mind should put a bit of fighting pep into these aldermen and our mayor, when they see their good names changed in such a mutilated fashion in the report. I would not stand for that part of it, fun or intent.

So the Mayor of Toronto says "He must be guided by the opinion of the Toronto solicitor, and I do not know in what way I could meet your wishes."

Can our own Victoria solicitor not turn the coals of fire on Toronto, and make a demand? Surely we in Victoria don't want to be called a City of No Fighters.

A city like Victoria, so well up in sports of all kinds for pleasure, to my mind should take a serious turn for a change, and be sporty enough to stand up and bat for Victoria's city clerk.

(Mrs.) ADELAIDE MARSHALL.

Natural Law

Regarding Rev. William Hills' May 12 column, heaven help us if the day ever comes when we sit back in docile "duty" and "obedience" and let our professional men take full control of what we are fed or injected, either physically or mentally!

The poor old layman has been dubbed many belittling names by the men of letters for having dared express an opinion in the fields of human nutrition, mass medication or maltreatment of animals.

The good padre apparently didn't read the enlightening letter on the editorial page of the same issue relative to fluoridation by a man who has spent nearly 20 years in biochemical research and in hospital laboratories studying the effect of fluorides on the human body. There's a thousand dollar reward for anyone who can disprove any of his statements!

The cases against vivisection, fluoridation, vaccination and other unnatural man-devised cures are not confined to the valiant group of unlettered individuals. Many respected men of science—doctors, dentists, university professors, chiropractors, naturopaths etc.—are strongly against these methods.

Let us examine both sides of the question before reaching conclusions. Or better still, we can ask ourselves "Is it a natural method, in accord with the laws of our Creator? Or, having disobeyed a natural law in some respect, are we trying to cancel one error with another?—in which case we eventually reap double consequences.

B. SHERIDAN.

Art and Austerity

In every community those things which contribute to its welfare and culture must receive the respect and support which they so rightly deserve.

Thus, I was very perturbed to find myself quoted to the effect that the Victoria symphony, art gallery and many other worthy organizations were "trash."

This year the Saanich Council has received a considerable number of requests for grants whose objectives are all deserving of support and encouragement.

In debating the matter of these requests, I have tried to make clear the fact that, in the face of a sharp increase in taxation, Saanich must operate this year on a greatly reduced budget occasioned by a shortage of revenue brought about by the radical change in assessments.

While it has been said that little or no new work can be done this year, every effort must be made to protect, preserve and maintain that which has been previously accomplished. This alone will take every available dollar.

Where, then, will come the funds from which requested grants shall be made? Such funds can come only as a result of cutting down on amounts normally expended on municipal services.

In my opinion, taxes are money contributed by the people primarily for the construction and maintenance of schools, roads, lights, drains, sewers and other essential services whereby living conditions are improved and the value of homes and properties is preserved.

Therefore, under a cloud of austerity, a taxpayer (who, perhaps, does not have an interest in art) who, on a poorly lighted street, stumbles in an unpatched hole, will most heartily resent the fact that his money was spent to support an art gallery after he had repeatedly asked for a street light or road repairs. To him his road and essential services are far more important. Perhaps he might be justified in calling art "trash" in his moment of anger.

Organizations which do so much for our welfare, enjoyment or culture, or which work with our schools toward the broadening and enlightening of minds, are vital to every community.

Is it not a great shame that we do not exhibit public spirit by contributing sufficiently, as individuals, toward their needs? Are we not embarrassed to see them reduced to seeking financial support from funds derived from taxation which is basically intended for other purposes?

R. M. GRANT,
Member of Saanich Council,
1514 Shorncliffe road,
Victoria, B.C.

Lack of Vision

I was very interested in the letter of Clarence S. Goode in a recent issue of your paper. It was the most sensible letter yet written on the subject of the Beaver Lake project.

Sqdn. Ldr. Goode propounds a question which I think I can answer. He asks, "Why should our elected representatives look a gift horse in the mouth?" Surely the answer must be that the reeve in question lacks vision.

If the young people of B.C. could be encouraged to take an interest in horses and horsemanship instead of nanging around pool-halls wearing zoot-suits it would be much better for them. To me it was quite amazing that at the time of the Coronation the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery could not produce any officers who could ride a horse and those who were selected had to be taught to ride by the RCMP. I should like to see an interest in horses reintroduced into Canada, for there is no healthier sport in the world.

Good luck to the efforts of Mr. S. A. G. Crittenden and Sqdn. Ldr. C. S. Goode.

H. M. MANNING.

City Council Briefs

Committee Takes Second Look At Liquor-Outlet Licence Fee

Public works committee took back a recommendation to city council yesterday after hearing Edward Brand, president of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association, make a plea.

The committee was going to recommend that restaurants and dining-room liquor outlets be required to pay a $50 semi-annual licence fee and other liquor outlets a $100 fee.

But Mr. Brand told council sales of beer and wine in restaurants didn't justify a fee. Five of the eight restaurant outlets, he said, would relinquish their licences if the fee were imposed.

The committee took its recommendation back for further study.

* * *

Council finally adopted its $6,600,000 budget, after receiving approval from the provincial department of municipal affairs.

* * *

Assured by councils of the adjacent municipalities that they agree to arbitration of the sharing of cost of a new wing for the Royal Jubilee Hospital, aldermen approved appointment of a city representative to an arbitration board.

* * *

The Victoria police commission informed council that it couldn't properly control dumping of garbage on city-owned property without a 24-hour guard, and criticized the system of charging 35 cents for disposing of a carton or a truckload of garbage at the city incinerator.

Ald. Arthur Dowell, chairman of the public works committee, said there was "a little resentment about the way the police commission wrote" but "it's been straightened out now."

* * *

Finance committee will consider the suggestion of the mayor that the city demand written reasons of the majority of the conciliation board that gave the police force a five per cent wage increase.

"This thing must come to a stop somewhere and the best way is to have it aired in Supreme Court," the mayor said.

* * *

City council authorized the Memorial Arena commission to have the arena floor repaired at a cost of approximately $20,000.

Public works committee said it was basing its recommendation on the report of the city engineer, supported by a Vancouver firm of consulting engineers.

Ald. Brent Murdoch added: "I place full responsibility on the city engineer."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow warned that it was "quite possible that a new floor will be put in in a year or two, but this work will have to be done anyway."

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lake, 851 Maddison, must remove the trees they have planted in the boulevard in front of their home, council decided after more than 10 minutes of debate, mostly concerning the wording of the motion.

Request of the B.C. Aviation Council for permission to land seaplanes on Elk Lake on May 28 was refused.

Royal Oak Group Meets Monday

Regular monthly meeting of Royal Oak High School PTA will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at the school. A nominating committee will be formed to nominate officers for the coming year.

* * *

Last meeting of the season for Central Junior High School PTA will be held Tuesday evening. Annual reports will be presented and officers installed for the coming year.

* * *

Tillicum PTA's final meeting [illegible] will be held at the school Monday at 8 p.m. A film will be shown.

Mrs. W. V. Devlin was elected president of Quadra PTA at the annual meeting Tuesday. Mrs. K. Mills gave a report on the recent PTA convention at Nanaimo. Mrs. F. G. Tanner reported on the successful spring tea held May 4. Walter Jeune, chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, was guest speaker.

* * *

Walter Parker was elected president of Willows PTA at the final meeting of the term held recently. Other officers are T. Curteis, honorary president; W. Chater, second vice-president; Mrs. C. F. Boughey, recording secretary; Mrs. C. Guiget, corresponding secretary; Hugh Campbell, treasurer; Mrs. A. Salter, membership; Mrs. W. Parker, social; Mrs. W. Campbell, publicity; Mrs. E. Coastain, fine arts; Mrs. G. Olson, radio; Mrs. H. Campbell, publications; Mrs. S. Mill, health and youth welfare; Mrs. Phil Holmes, hospitality; Mrs. D. Parfitt, pianist.

Miss M. Patterson led the school choir in three selections. Folk dances were presented by Grade 4 pupils directed by Miss E. Burne.

Mrs. R. H. Craig reported on behalf of the summer playground committee.

* * *

Final season's meeting of Tolmie PTA held Monday decided to hold a pre-primary tea Wednesday for the benefit of parents registering children for Grade 1.

The PTA is also arranging a panel discussion on what parents can do to help teachers, to be broadcast by radio station CJVI at 9.30 a.m., Sunday, May 29. Panel members will be H. C. O'Donnell, principal; Miss Mary Saich; Mrs. W. Cartwright and R. Wingfield-Digby.

Bernard C. Gillie, principal of S. J. Willis Junior High School, was guest speaker.

BBC in Trouble Over Easter Play

LONDON (Reuters) — The British Broadcasting Corporation is caught in the middle of a dispute between Protestants and Roman Catholics over an Easter television drama which portrayed the Virgin Mary as the mother of several children.

Protestants declared in a letter to the state-owned BBC that its director-general, Sir Ian Jacob, made an "abject apology" to Catholic leaders in reply to their protest about the TV play.

The United Protestant Council, a voluntary body representing virtually all Protestant societies in Britain, said the Holy Scriptures do not attribute "perpetual virginity" to the Virgin Mary. It said that, after Christ's birth, Mary became "like any other good woman, a good man's wife."

Bernard Cardinal Griffin, Catholic leader in Britain, protested to Jacob last week that the portrayal of Mary as a mother of several children ran "contrary to sound scholarship and the beliefs of all Christian bodies."

The BBC chief admitted his organization had committed a grave error in televising the play on Easter Sunday but saw no wrong in a repeat performance given later. Cardinal Griffin maintained the play should not have been presented at any time.

Mental Health Address Topic

PARKSVILLE — Mental health was the subject of an address by school principal Roy Thorsteinson to Parksville PTA monthly meeting.

Small Audience Hinders Festival

DUNCAN — The Cowichan schools drama festival continued Thursday night but unfortunately before a very small audience.

Three plays were presented, "The Old Lady of Cheadle" by Yellow Point High School group, "Wrong Numbers" by Cowichan High School girls and "The Woman in the Freight Car" by Cowichan High School Senior Drama Club.

The Yellow Point presentation was characterized by excellent timing, movement and reactions, but the production as a whole tended to become too rhythmic.

Perhaps the greatest hindrance to all the performers was the miniscule number of spectators, which may well have accounted for defects which appeared from time to time.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices moved narrowly but showed a firm tone at the close. Trading was moderately active.

There was export buying in barley with parcel lots reported going overseas. Domestic shippers took oats and domestic processors and seaboard houses were active in flax.

Some buying was influenced by unfavorable forecasts of showers and snowfall over the prairie grain belt during the week-end.

Class Two wheat prices were unchanged.

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal bond markets were quiet and firm.

In the corporation market, CPR 3⅝s of '72 were up ¼ at 99¾-100¼. Other ¼-point gains were recorded in the Dominion Steel and Coal 4¼s of '70 at 100½, in the Hudson Bay 4s of '75 at 99¼-¾ and in the Petrofina 4s of '72 at 102-103½.

The government market was quiet and unchanged.

U.S. Action Causes Slump In Columbiums

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed to slightly higher [illegible] buying [illegible] cut earlier losses.

Price changes were mostly small.

Reports that the United States government has filled its stockpiling needs of columbium and tantalum sent prices of many speculative issues down sharply. Hardest hit were companies in Quebec's Oka district and around North Bay and further north in Ontario.

Beaucage recorded the biggest drop, falling $1.50 to $3.60 on 56,000 shares.

Toronto brokers said it might be "some time" before the affected companies recovered.

Conwest Explorations was one of the few bright spots on the speculative list jumping 55 cents.

Among industrials, financial institutions, constructions, refining oils and liquors showed consistent strength with most issues recording fractional advances. Papers was the weakest component on the list.

Base metals ended slightly up.

Western oils and golds showed little change after recovering from early losses.

Montreal Advances

MONTREAL (CP) — The industrial market advanced irregularly while the mines took heavy losses at the close of active trading.

Leading industrials included Asbestos and Price, each up 1½. Minnesota and Ontario up 2¾ and Hudson Bay up 1¼.

St. Lawrence Paper fell 3.

Base metals and papers were strong while miscellaneous industrials and papers edged forward. Utilities were shaded. There was little change in the remainder of the industrial market.

Mines fell sharply reflecting suspension of tantalum and columbium purchases by the United States.

New York Rallies

NEW YORK (AP) — The sharp falls of the last two sessions were retraced moderately by a quiet advance in the stock market. Trading was at the lowest ebb in six and a half months.

Aircrafts, quite backward all week, held modest gains at the finish. Other major divisions were also up.

Sunray-Mid-Continent Petroleum preferred when-issued stock was the day's most active issue unchanged at 25¼.

Canadian stocks higher included Hiram Walker, ahead 1%, Canadian Pacific, ahead ⅛ and International Nickel, up ¼.

Canadian issues on the American stock exchange were quiet.

Industrials Firm

VANCOUVER — Industrials kept firm but mines and oils showed a weakening tendency although trading was at its slowest pace in several weeks.

Western Potash was a heavy trader and made a partial recovery to close at 83 cents. National Exploration dipped to 1.98. Vantor was easier at 72 cents.

Western Plywood was at a new high of $16 and Powell River at $51 and MacMillan at $36 were stronger.

Message from the Minister

Sin Breaks Contact with God

This is the fourth of a series of messages written by Victoria area clergymen to appear weekly in the church page of The Daily Colonist.

BY CANON S. J. WICKENS
St. Martins-in-the-Fields

"Thousands of prayers go up. Nothing comes down!" "I prayed earnestly for my husband to be spared, but he died!" "I pray no longer! The Bible is not true!" "Ask and ye shall NOT receive! That's my experience!"

What have we to say to this cry?

Why do prayers fail?

(1) Sin hinders prayer. If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me."

Prayer is a connection we have with God, and sin breaks that connection. If my telephone wire is cut, you cannot hear me. I may use all the eloquence and noise at my command, but all my speech is lost in the air.

So sin cuts the wire connecting us with God.

You may say: "Are we not all sinners and therefore all cut off from God?" Certainly not! It is unrepented sin that hinders prayer. If I have broken with God by sin, I must repair the break by confession to Him before I can petition Him.

CANON S. J. WICKENS

(2) Then, too much prayer is selfish and so it is not answered.

Some prayer may seem good, and yet the inner motive is very selfish. For example: A mother prays for her only son to be a practising Christian. That prayer is common to most mothers of boys. Now, supposing the prayer is answered and the boy feels God's call to the foreign mission field, and the mother reacts by saying "Oh no! I can't spare him. I did not want him to be such a keen Christian as that!"

Evidently the mother's prayer was selfish. She wanted her boy to be a Christian, partly for the sake of her own peace of mind, family pride or tradition of respectability.

Many prayers are unanswered, not because God is unwilling to do a desired thing, but because selfishness in prayer lets the Devil in.

(3) Many only pray when they are scared and up against it.

That may not be a sign of religion but of cowardice!

Some may think the real praying in the Lord's Prayer does not begin until we come to "Give us this day our daily bread"; as if all that goes before is just a preliminary coaxing from a "dead-beat" to get a "hand-out" from a reluctant householder!

No! Prayer is many-sided. It is thanksgiving, praise, asking for others, as well as for one's own needs.

In many churches tomorrow, Rogation Sunday, you will hear sermons on prayer. Why not go and hear the truth?

"The fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."

'Anglicans' Known Only To Census

VANCOUVER (CP) — Archdeacon H. J. Greig told delegates to the 51st annual synod here there are 61,097 known Anglicans in New Westminster diocese.

"But the census enumerators found 126,000 persons who claim to be Anglicans," he added.

The archdeacon said another group, composed of people not pretending to be Anglicans or members of any other religious group "are potential material for whatever denomination succeeds in securing their interest."

He urged the synod to frame and adopt a "strongly worded resolution which would direct the parishes to make a concerted effort in the direction of 'unknown' Anglicans and those claiming no religious affiliation."

Knox College Legacy Fought By Wife, Son

REGINA (CP)—Court of Queen's Bench this fall will decide the future of a $460,000 estate left by Arthur Pitman, an illiterate pencil seller who amassed a fortune in bonds and real estate holdings.

Mr. Pitman died last June at the age of 81. He left the bulk of his estate, $380,000, to Knox College in Toronto, providing certain conditions were fulfilled. His will is being contested by his estranged wife and son, both of Vancouver, who have filed a claim under the dependants' relief act.

Knox College was to receive its share of the estate 21 years after Mr. Pitman's death, provided it still offered a theological course to train Presbyterian ministers. Otherwise, the money was to go to the Presbyterian Church of Canada.

Mr. Pitman, although illiterate, was a shrewd business man. At his death he owned 16 houses in Regina valued at $96,000, 12 parcels of land totalling 15 sections and about $260,000 in bonds. In his later years he lived frugally.

United Church Clergy Frame Resolutions

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 416 members attending 31st annual conference of the United Church in B.C. went into a huddle of 18 groups Friday to discuss major issues of church and state.

Out of these discussions will come key resolutions to be put before the conference Monday, and in closing sessions Tuesday.

Top clerics attending sessions said social issues will be on the agenda Monday, such as the drug question, and gambling.

International issues, and possible solutions, will also come up along with mission fields and church educational plans.

Today, one of the main features will be formation of possible plans to improve and increase facilities at Union College, UBC.

Theosophists To Hear Address

Mrs. Grace Hughes will speak on "Speculations on Immortality" at a meeting of the Theosophical Society at 8 p.m. Sunday at 904 Government.

Bonner Chosen To Head Panel At Conference

Attorney-General Robert Bonner will be chairman of one of the panels during the national highway safety conference sponsored by the Canadian Good Roads Association in Ottawa May 24.

Mr. Bonner has been named chairman of the enforcement committee of the conference. Secretary will be C. W. Harvison, formerly an RCMP superintendent in B.C. and now an assistant commissioner in RCMP headquarters at Ottawa.

Earth's equatorial circumference is 24,902 miles; measured north-south it is 24,860.

Fund Raiser

WALTER M. CARSON

A prominent Vancouver business executive, Walter M. Carson has been named to head a special-names committee of Union College of B.C.'s fund drive. Objective is $650,000, to expand the teaching facilities of the theological centre, and to set up endowments to assist needy students over the next 20 years.

Student Choir To Visit City

Presbyterian Student Choir, comprising students for the ministry from Knox College, Toronto, and Presbyterian College, Montreal, will conduct the morning service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Douglas and Broughton, at 11 a.m. Sunday, May 22. The choir is on a preaching and singing tour in western Canada.

New Dempsey Claim 'Poppycock'—McCann

RENFREW, Ont. (CP)—The Dempsey squabble took a new twist yesterday, ringing in the 1953 federal elections and drawing new denials from Revenue Minister McCann.

In a telephone interview, James Dempsey, unlettered 68-year-old general contractor-turned-politician, accused Dr. McCann of threatening "hook" him for back income tax if he opposed the Liberal cabinet member in the 1953 elections.

Dr. McCann immediately denied the statement as "poppycock."

Last week Mr. Dempsey was dropped by Progressive Conservative headquarters in Toronto as a candidate for the forthcoming June 9 provincial elections. Premier Frost refused endorsation until Mr. Dempsey cleared up why $6,800 in contributions to his 1951 provincial election campaign fund had gone unreported.

In public meetings and interviews this week Mr. Dempsey has said he received $5,000 in cash from James Drohan, Barry's Bay, Ont., lumberman who died November 11, 1953, and that he signed blank receipts which Mr. Drohan could have filled in subsequently. He calls his failure to include them in his reports an oversight and an indiscretion.

"What more," he asked reporters Friday, "does Frost want me to do than what I've done?"

Mr. Dempsey said Friday his supporters wanted him to oppose Dr. McCann federally in 1953.

"He came to me and that was the time he made the comment 'I see where Drohan has been helping you fellows considerably'."

He said Dr. McCann told him: "You'd better stay out of this the federal campaign or you'll be liable for income tax."

Interviewed in Ottawa, Dr. McCann denounced the allegation, saying: "That's all poppycock, whole cloth, and I'm prepared to take an affidavit against it."

Mrs. M. Savard Heads Altar Club

Mrs. M. Savard was elected president at a recent meeting of St. Joseph's parish altar guild at Chemainus.

Also elected were Mrs. C. M. Rainsworth, secretary; Mrs. H. Chase, treasurer; Mrs. H. O. Nicholls and Mrs. H. Galvin, visiting committee, and Mrs. L. Gagnor, church cleaning.

In City Churches Sunday

Uniformed Nurses To Attend Services

Nearly 100 nurses of the Greater Victoria area will parade to cathedrals Sunday for evensong to commemorate the birthday of Florence Nightingale, founder of the present-day nursing profession.

The woman who won the world's tribute and Queen Victoria's praise for her work in the Crimean War was born May 15, 1820.

The Victoria chapter of the Registered Nurses' Association of B.C. will attend services in uniform.

Graduates of St. Joseph's Hospital will attend in a body.

Student nurses from both St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee will join the other groups both at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic and Christ Church Cathedral.

Services at both commence at 7.30 p.m.

* * *

Young adult groups of the YMCA will attend the evening service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday. Young Adult Club and Golden Nugget Club attend a church of a different denomination as a group one Sunday each month.

Win Titles in Victoria High Meet

Boasting three of the four individual champions, House II swept to an easy victory in the annual Victoria High School inter-house track and field meet yesterday by piling up almost twice the number of points as runner-up House III. Individual winners, shown above, are left to right: Bill Hitch of House II, senior boys; Connie Sampson of House IV, junior girls; Pam Golby, House II, senior girls, and Tom English of House II, junior boys.

House II Vic High Winner; Five More Records Smashed

Five records were smashed yesterday including one that has stood since before the Second World War as House II athletes swept to an easy victory in the annual Victoria High School inter-house track and field meet.

Carrying a 27½-point lead established in three days of field event competition into yesterday's track finals, House II athletes steadily added to their total and also won three of the four individual point championships.

FAR IN FRONT

House II wound up the 41 events with 191¼ points while House III finished strongly to nip House I, 117¼ to 116¼. House IV trailed with 106¼ points.

Despite the chilly weather and a soft track, several good times were recorded in addition to yesterday's five records, which brought to 10 the number of new marks established in the four days of competition. There were also several outstanding individual performances with all four champions winning their age divisions handily.

Tightest battle was in the senior boys division in which Bill Hitch and Joe Haegert outclassed the field. Hitch won the title with 29½ points which included four firsts, two seconds and a sixth-place finish while Haegert wound up with 21 points on three firsts and two seconds.

OLD RECORD GOES

Haegert, who is only 16 and was eligible to compete in the junior boys events, won both the 100 and 220-yard events and smashed a pre-war record in the 220-yard run when he broke the tape in 23 seconds flat. Joe Addison, who was killed during the war, held the old mark of 23.6.

Tom English set a new record of 10.6 in the junior boys 100 yards and won a total of four events to pick up 22 points, 10 more than runner-up Bob Haskins.

Pam Golby won five events in winning the senior girls crown with 27 points for a 14½-point edge over Ruth Orton. The junior girls title went to Connie Sampson for the second straight year. Miss Sampson piled up 25 points while runner-up Jean Harrison was far off the pace with eight points.

Friday's results:

Lausse Defeats Jones To Improve Chances

NEW YORK (AP) — Though gashed deeply over both eyes, Argentina's Eduardo Lausse hammered out a unanimous 10-round decision over durable Ralph Jones to run his winning streak to 28 at Madison Square Garden Friday night. It was a rousing fight from the opening bell.

Each weighed 167½.

The slugging South American, now the seventh-ranking middle-weight contender, boosted his chances for a title shot at champion Carl (Bobo) Olson with his blistering punching and courageous display in the final rounds as blood almost completely obscured his vision at times.

All three officials voted for Lausse by six rounds to three with one even.

The Argentine was cut slightly over his left eye in the second round. In the sixth it was opened a bit more. But in the seventh the 27-year-old invader came out of a head collision with a deep, long cut over his left eye and a jagged cut over his right orb.

Blood gushed from all three cuts but Lausse tore after Jones and poured on a stream of left hooks to the chin that shook up the Yonkers, N.Y., Negro.

Travelers Gain Tie for Lead

HOW THEY STAND

	W	L	Pct.
McCall-Davey	1	0	1.000
UCT	1	0	1.000
Eagles	1	1	.000
Menzies	1	1	.000
Optimists	0	0	.000
Tillicums	0	2	.000

Last night's score: UCT 6, Tillicums 2.

Next games, Sunday: McCall-Davey vs. Eagles, 1.30; Menzies vs. UCT, 3 p.m., Beacon Hill Park.

United Commercial Travelers moved into a first-place tie with McCall-Davey and Eagles in Babe Ruth Baseball League action last night by trimming Tillicums, 6-2, at Macdonald Park.

Dave Emery sparked the winners, holding Tillicums to three hits while striking out 16, and smashing a bases-loaded home run in the fourth inning to provide the winning margin.

On Thursday night, Eagles won their first game by routing Menzies Fuel, 23-3. Ed Castner hit a grand slam homer for the winners and Murray Superle hit a bases-loaded homer while Jack Greenwood held the losers to only two hits.

In Action Today

ART GREEN

Southpaw pitcher with Capitals, Art Green is expected to see action at Royal Athletic Park this afternoon when Capitals meet Eagles in opening game of Victoria senior Amateur Baseball League season at 2.30. In the twilight game, scheduled to get under way at 6.30, Farmer Construction will face Duncan.

Bo Wininger, Ford Tied For Golf Tourney Lead

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Doug Ford of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., and Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City, two superb short-iron shooters, fired their second straight 67s Friday to take a two-stroke lead at the halfway mark in the $15,000 Hot Springs open golf tournament.

Both were 10 strokes under par at 67-67—134, and two strokes better than Ted Kroll of Bethesda, Md., and Cary Middlecoff, the Masters champion from Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.

Kroll, Ford, Wininger and Al Besselink of Grossinger's, N.Y., had finished in a four-way tie at the end of the first round at 67.

Kroll registered a smooth 69 Friday, but Besselink virtually faded from contention for the $5,400 top prize by taking a 78. Besselink's 36-hole total of 145 was 11 strokes behind the two leaders.

Andy Fourth In Pin Meet

TORONTO (CP)—Ray Bain of Windsor, Ont., stepped into the lead of the Canadian 10-pin singles bowling championship Friday with a 1,033 five-game total.

Pete Jones of Calgary was second with 998. In third position was Francois Raymond of Quebec, P.Q., with 894.

In fourth place was Andy Palmer, of Victoria, B.C., with a 873 five-game total.

By The Associated Press

Mickey Mantle, hitting with borrowed bats, smashed three home runs Friday—two from the left side and one from the right—to give the New York Yankees a 5-2 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

Batting lefthanded against rightie Steve Gromek, Mantle poled a two-run homer in the first and a bases-empty clout in the fifth. Then in the eight, with lefthander Bob Miller pitching, Mickey sent the ball into the right field bleachers, boosting his season's homer total to ten.

FIFTH ONE, TOO

He also knocked in the Yankees' fifth run in the third with a single which scored Hank Bauer.

For his first two homers, Mantle used a bat discarded by Enos Slaughter, sold this week to Kansas City. The last one was struck with a bat borrowed from the ailing Bill Skowron.

Home runs, but less clustered, figured prominently in the other two afternoon games, both in the National League.

Centrefielder Willie Mays hit a tenth inning homer to give the New York Giants a 4-3 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals. Junior Gilliam and Roy Campanella contributed out-of-park shots as the Brooklyn Dodgers snapped a two-game losing streak by thumping Milwaukee 6-2.

RAIN AND COLD

The other two National League games—Philadelphia at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh at Chicago—were postponed because of rain and cold.

Two games in the American also were victim of inclement weather—Cleveland at Washington and Chicago at Baltimore.

Boston Red Sox were made a gift of a 4-3 victory over Kansas City Athletics in a night game at Boston delayed an hour and 23 minutes and played under protest by the Athletic's manager Lou Bourdeau.

Gene Stephens was walked home with the winning run in the ninth inning. In the weird finish reliefer Tom Gorman walked Gene Stephens and let him go to second on a wild pitch. Gorman then walked Jim Piersall and threw wild to first on Grady Hatton's sacrifice to load the bases. Then he walked Billy Goodman to force in Stephens.

FOURTH FOR FORD

Whitey Ford, in recording his fourth pitching victory of the season for the Yankees, gave up only three hits. He had a no-hitter going until the fifth when he gave up a single to Ray Boone. Boone homered in the seventh for the Tigers' only runs and Ford was replaced by Tom Morgan in the eighth.

The Giants and Cardinals were knotted 3-3 when Mays came up in the 10th to pole his seventh home run of the year. The blow came off Harvey Haddix.

Last night's score: Arrow Furniture 5, Victoria City 1.

Next games, Sunday: United Services vs. Fletchers, first game of doubleheader starts at 1.30.

Arrow Furniture extended its undefeated streak through a fourth game at Central Park last night as Archie Sluggett turned in a fine mound chore to hold Victoria City to two hits in recording a 5-1 win.

Victoria gave Arrows a four-point lead atop the senior men's softball league standings.

Sluggett pitched almost perfectly and had a no-hitter until the eighth inning, when he lost both his no-hit chances and his shutout as well.

One was out when a base on balls to Bing Merluck started the little rally which led to the only run for the losers. Merluck moved to second on a passed ball and scored when Don Paulin singled for the first hit off Sluggett. It was a clean shot to left-field.

A ninth-inning double by Bob Abbott was the only other hit off Sluggett.

POOR SUPPORT

Dennis Beaulac saw a good pitching job wasted as his teammates gave him little in the way of support. Victoria City made six errors and four of the five runs scored by Arrows were unearned.

Arrows opened the scoring with a single run in the second inning, then got two more in the third on a triple by George Wright, a two-base error, and a double by Bill Benn.

Fletchers, pre-season favorites, get back into action Sunday afternoon after two rain-outs when they meet United Services in a doubleheader at Central Park. First game will start at 1.30.

Newest Little League Sets Opening Sunday

Victoria and district's newest Little League—the four-team Esquimalt baseball circuit—will hold its official opening Sunday at Bullen Park and a good crowd is expected to be on hand to watch the brief opening ceremonies and a doubleheader.

Naden Pirates and Esquimalt Lions will meet at 1 p.m. in the opening game and opening ceremonies are scheduled to get under way at 2 p.m. Yarrows and Esquimalt Merchants will clash in the second game immediately following the brief ceremonies.

Taking part in the opening will be the Esquimalt High School band, the Esquimalt May Queen and her attendants, league president Bill Rogers, Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele, Junior Chamber of Commerce representative Bud Simpson, Padre Roberts, representatives from the sponsors and representatives from the army and navy.

Many other persons who have helped to organize Little League in the sports-minded district have also been invited to the opening.

Managers of the four clubs have sliced their rosters to the 15-player limit. All youngsters who didn't catch berths on the "major" teams are asked to report to Bullen Park Monday night at 6.15 p.m. when they will be assigned to farm teams.

Final team rosters:

Stadium Gets New Turf

Workmen rush repairs to the Empire Stadium at Vancouver to get it ready for this season's Western Interprovincial Union games and the Grey Cup classic in November. The turf-laying job must be completed within a few days so the field can settle. Rushed to completion for last summer's British Empire Games, the field turned into a quagmire during the football season.

Y Entrants Dominate City Swimming Meet

YMCA's powerful swimming team swept to victory in all but one event in the city swimming championships at the Crystal Garden last night to easily defeat spiashers from the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club.

Monty Holding gave the VASC its only victory by edging clubmate Wayne Wagner and Harold McKenzie of the Y in the under-11-years freestyle event.

In one of the most thrilling events of the evening, Don Heywood won the Jack Todd Trophy for the under-17-years 150-yard medley championship by edging Gerry Cuthbert of the Y. Cuthbert took an early lead but Heywood finished strong and wiped out a 30-yard deficit.

STRONG FINISH

A strong closing finish earned Sheri Stott the Jack Tod Trophy for the girls' under-17-years medley championship.

YMCA's second team upset the first squad in the 200-yard boys' freestyle relay to win the Britannia Branch Trophy while YMCA's first team took the Pro Patria Trophy for girls' freestyle relay honors. Art Kenwood of the Britannia Branch and Ken McPhail of the Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion presented the trophies.

Playground Location Wins Favor

NANAIMO—Nanaimo Senior High School site now has general approval as the location for the 20-acre playground to be constructed and maintained on a long-term basis. Fourteen organizations representing Nanaimo community life approved the school site. Other proposed sites were Beban Park, purchased by the city a few years ago, and Bowen Park, now being developed largely through voluntary work as a beauty spot.

The Recreation Commission will establish a committee to arrange an agreement on the site with the school board and will ask council to sanction use of funds left over from the sale of Central Sports Grounds some years ago for $100,000.

School Board indicated that it will spend $20,000 on the school property regardless of whether it is used as a major playground.

Two Jailed for Ignoring Summons

DUNCAN — Two Duncan men who disobeyed a small debts court judgment summons spent 24 hours in jail this week for contempt of court when the plaintiff's counsel asked for committal.

Magistrate A. C. Sutton issued the committal orders. The men were arrested and placed in jail until the following day. Ed Shearing and H. J. Mayes were ordered to pay their delinquent accounts and they settled up promptly.

Magistrate Sutton pointed out the seriousness of the failure to obey a judgment summons and said he had dealt very leniently with the two debtors.

"The Small Debts Act provides up to 21 days in jail for this offence," he said.

Impaired driving charges landed one man in jail for 11 days and cost a second man $150 in police court. Edward Pollard was given the 11-day prison term for a second offence. His driving licence was suspended for three months. He pleaded guilty.

Attention of police was drawn to the car operated by A. A. Sayers when he drove around the city without his lights on. An impaired driving count resulted, and Magistrate Sutton fined him $150.

Controversial Art on Display

More than 10,000 persons are expected to view the startling paintings of a controversial White Russian artist, Vladimir Tretchikoff, left, who will display 6 of his paintings from noon am. to 5.30 pm. for 10 days starting Tuesday on the second floor of Eaton's home furnishings building. Painting being admired by Allan Leith, assistant store manager, and Mrs. Leith is of ballerina Alicia Markova. Approximately 85,000 Vancouver residents saw the exhibit of the 32-year-old painter, who earns $20,000 a year through his work.

Council's Rejection of Lease Probably Death Blow to Track

The proposed Beaver Lake-Elk Lake racetrack project received what is probably its death blow from city council yesterday.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said later, however, that proponents "are going to keep on struggling."

Council for the second time rejected introduction of the by-law granting the Island Turf Club a lease on the racetrack site. The same by-law now cannot be presented again this year.

Council referred the question of developing the lake area to the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee, however, and in this action racetrack supporters saw a ray of hope.

If the committee should include establishment of a racetrack in its recommendations, an entirely new by-law could be introduced.

Council heard a letter from Saanich council, suggesting a discussion of whether the city should be willing to sell its Beaver Lake-Elk Lake property, for a playground purpose, place to use property for development as a park.

SECOND LOOK

Ald. W. F. Pitfield then moved that the matter of development of the property be referred over to the beaches and parks committee, and Ald. Edgelow protested that council was "not even prepared to look at" the proposal.

"After it is reproduced it can be sent back referred to the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee or whatever you want," said Ald. Edgelow.

"If we can't do anything with it after debating it and referring it to the committee, we can throw it out," agreed Ald. J. D. Smith. "But this will keep it alive."

Ald. Robert Macmillan said he thought the whole by-law should be allowed before being introduced. The beaches and parks committee he said should be asked to determine if the area is suitable for full development including a racetrack and fall fair.

FAVORS PARK

Ald. M. H. Mooney said he would support the town plan zoning committee's recommendation of park development.

He said he was not against a racetrack, but opposed going against the recommendation of the town planning commission and the decision of Saanich.

"I think we should value this property very highly, and keep it for our children's children. We shouldn't sell any of it, not even for $5,000 an acre," he said.

Alderman Edgelow argued that the racetrack backers were willing to spend $500,000 in the Victoria area and "I don't think anyone would like to kill the possibility of that money being spent here. It might even help put all the truck people who go across here out."

The mayor and Aldermen Edgelow and Brent Muirhead voted for reintroduction of the by-law. The other four council members voted against it.

MAYOR ALONE

The mayor voted alone against referring the question of park development to the beaches and parks committee.

"I think you are tying your hands, and therefore I am against your" decision.

Members of the committee are the mayor, Aldermen Edgelow, Macmillan and Heath, Reeve Joseph Casey of Saanich, Controller George Allen, S. W. Black and E. J. Fleming.

Public Blamed

R. J. Dunsmuir has resigned as president of the Victoria branch, SPCA, after serving three terms because of the "general apathy of the public" toward work done by the society.

He said there was no internal dissension in the organization, but put the blame squarely on the public.

"I found it rather difficult and frustrating with such a lack of public support," he said. "They should take more responsibility from the shoulders of a few volunteers who are doing all the work."

Mr. Dunsmuir is succeeded by William A. Leach, formerly second vice-president.

IWA Contract Dispute To Wait Two Weeks Before Conciliation Board Goes to Work

BY BILL MAYOR

[illegible] conciliation officers unable to [illegible] about agreement [illegible] recommended a conciliation board [illegible] between [illegible] coast [illegible] operations [illegible] expected next week after [illegible] Hunter will preside [illegible] appointed members to the board [illegible] Labor Relations Board [illegible] chief mediator for the [illegible] the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

Negotiations broke up in bitterness two days ago with union president Joe Morris stating "... the employers evidently intend to make us fight with all the means at our disposal ..." to gain contract terms.

A conciliation board is the [illegible] step required before a strike vote can be taken.

[illegible] word from [illegible] employers' offices yesterday that [illegible] operations on Vancouver Island, employing about half the union's 24,000 members in the coast district, are affected by the negotiations.

The IWA's [illegible] bargaining committee is headed by district president Mr. Morris of Duncan, and includes Wilbur Allen of Port Alberni, J. Mackenzie of Victoria and Dan Buck of Duncan.

Appointment of a chairman may become a Labor Relations Board task as the disputants in the past have been unable to agree between themselves on a selection.

The IWA and operators will [illegible] their original demands of the board. The union pressed for [illegible] general increase in all rates of the [illegible] coverage and revisions of the present contract.

A 10 cent an hour wage increase in the base $1.40 an hour for union shop, three [illegible] statutory holidays and an industry-wide joint contributory medical plan are among union demands.

Saanich Objection to Plan Given Hearing by Cabinet

Saanich council called on the provincial government yesterday to revise the municipal aid grant system "With a view to a more equitable method of distribution."

Reeve Joseph Casey and the council presented a brief to the cabinet in which it protested the new grant formula gave Saanich $158,000 less revenue this year—which will result in a 16 per cent jump in taxes.

"FAR TOO LOW"

The reeve admitted in his brief that [illegible] were far too low [illegible] of grants it treats municipalities [illegible] unfairly by making the [illegible] grants on a population basis.

Saanich was singled out by the premier when he announced the new formula as one of [illegible] about six municipalities which [illegible] of grants it treats municipalities might suffer. He said the increase in Saanich's school tax burden is due to undervaluation of real property such as [illegible] to shift much of its school tax burden in past years to the [illegible]

Corps of Veterans To Police Meters

By unanimous vote and without debate, city council yesterday approved engaging commissionaires to police the city's parking meters.

The action was taken on recommendation of council's public works committee.

The Canadian Corps of Commissionaires, the committee noted in its recommendation, will do the work at a cost of $1,162.50 a month, and the commissionaires used in the work will not be employees of the city, but of the corps.

However, they will be under direct control of the city manager and carry out their duties as designated by him.

Parking meter revenue for this year was estimated in the budget as $97,000.

Pickets Here To Advertise Outside Strike

Picket lines will be placed on four of Victoria's biggest retail outlets this morning advertising a Mainland labor dispute, it was learned last night.

The 'information picket lines' will concern the Rest-more Manufacturing Co., it was learned.

The International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) claim 200 production workers were fired Tuesday morning. The company maintains the employees were fired because of a sit-down strike.

Picketing of the Vancouver plant began after the workers were idled in a dispute over the earlier dismissal of a plant union official.

Frederick A. E. Manning will supervise provincial [illegible] areas of the Queen Alexandra Solarium campaign, it was confirmed yesterday.

The Victoria business man will direct areas outside of Vancouver and Victoria metropolitan limits during the drive for $731,000 which begins in June.

Eventual goal is construction of a new sick and crippled children's hospital at Gordon Head at an estimated cost of $720,000.

Federal and provincial aid in addition to more than $200,000 in bequests already held will supplement the total obtained in the campaign.

Lot Rezoned for Bank Branch

City council rejected a recommendation of the Town Planning Commission yesterday and rezoned a James Bay lot. A. I. Thomas applied for rezoning of the lot at 495 Superior from residential to commercial so that a branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce could be erected.

Town Planning Commission opposed the application and two weeks ago council referred the question to the commission for reconsideration. Yesterday the commission told council it still opposed rezoning. It said the owner's assumption at the time of purchase that the property was commercial was not a valid reason for rezoning that other property was available nearby and that setback difficulties could arise because of [illegible] neighboring residences.

Council received a letter from the bank. However on closing a petition from residents of the area favoring establishment of a branch. Alderman Creed said a bank would not spoil the district in any way.

A. K. Smalley wants to build a six-storey apartment block at Rupert and Heywood.

The city's present zoning by-law prohibits more than four storeys and the revised by-law, which may be passed soon, requires a bigger lot, although it permits six storeys.

The zoning board of appeal asked council if it had a right to permit Mr. Smalley to build, but City Solicitor A. J. Patton said only council could make the necessary by-law amendment. The matter was referred to council's zoning committee.

Transparent Coat Part of Costume

PARIS (Reuters) Parisian couturiers are making a point of showing the sheer short-sleeved coat in a bid to sell an unlikely item this midsummer: coat fabrics in June.

Gone no longer are coats to keep one warm, but are to become a costly accessory part of the formal costume.

These feminine and flattering coats are adapted in a dozen new styles in airy sheers with wide-open necks, no and brief sleeves just touching the top of the arm.

Geneviève Fath stars the transparent coat over her new silhouette which combines the long torso line with a return to the modest hour glass dresses in draped cape or chasuble coats in chiffon, organdy or organza. A model in café au lait chiffon is cut like a choir boy's vestment falling in folds beneath the wide, [illegible] der tip cape collar of starched white cotton.

Another model in dim white waffle piqué features an evolution of the famous A line redingote with bare armholes and scooped out neck. A full-length evening coat in cerise-colored paper taffeta has an interesting cut with the draped stole front tied in an empire effect under the bust. The back sweeps away from the body in a full cape.

LIKE ARTIST'S SMOCK

Another interpretation of the sheer coat is seen at Maggy Rouff in a fresh jeune fille effect in white organdy. It is fashioned like a loose swagger coat with tailored revers and wide cuffs, made entirely of box pleated organdy. Henry a la Pensee does a man's ulster with low set martingale belt

Jeanine M. Flitton, Brian Sedgman Exchange Vows at First United

A tiny blonde flower girl in gown of blue with pink velvet sash and miniature pink flowers in her hair, Sandra Orr preceded recent bride Jeanine Mary Flitton up the aisle of First United Church when she exchanged marriage vows with Mr. Brian Sedgman.

[illegible] lively were gowned alike in ballerina dresses of deep pink net and ace over pink satin with matching lace capelet. Their headpieces were clusters of deep pink net scattered with small flowers en tone.

Senior attendants carried bouquets of native blooms and pink gladioli combined bouquet wise of yellow marguerites and pale yellow rosebuds.

Mr. Earle Salmon was best man and Mr. Charles Flitton, brother of the bride and Mr. Lorne Cox, brother-in-law of the groom, ushered the guests to pews marked with blue flowers and satin ribbons.

During the signing of the register, Mr. Pierre Temp sang "Because" accompanied on the organ by Mr. P. Hodgson.

Cream stocks, pink pink carnations, tulips and fern formed the floral arrangements decorating Lougheed's Banquet Hall, scene of the reception. White [illegible] which was centred with a three-tier cake surrounded in tulle. Mr. Roy Vincent proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon trip to the states by way of Vancouver, Mrs. Sedgman donned a three-piece blue silk dress, blue-grey top coat, small white hat and blonde shoes and purse. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Upon return the couple will make their home at Gordon Head.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. R. Boorman, Fort Alberni; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flitton, Mrs. [illegible] and Miss Sylvia [illegible]

TV Talk

BY ROY PARRETT

Today is sports day on television. Baseball, boat races, boxing and wrestling are all listed for your viewing pleasure.

The Brooklyn Dodgers face the Cincinnati Reds at Crosley Field at 11:45 a.m. PDT. KOMO-TV will carry the game, with Dizzy Dean and Buddy Blattner calling the plays. Both KTNT-TV and KVOS-TV will carry the game.

Bill O'Mara, KING-TV sports director, will be on hand for the University of Washington-University of California crew races on Lake Washington at Seattle this afternoon.

KING-TV camera will cover all three events starting at 4:30 p.m.

Joe Louis' first fight since he was beaten by Rocky Marciano will be seen at 1 p.m. PDT on KING-TV and KVOS-TV and at 4:30 on Channel 5.

An hour of bouts from the Pacific Northwest will be seen in KING'S Ring at 7 p.m. on KING-TV.

Texas wrestling on KVOS-TV at 8:30 tonight will feature warm-up bouts by Maurice Vachon and Billy Darnell and by Elephant Boy and Ray Piret. The main event will be a one fall-to-the-finish match between Jim Blood and Otto Kuss.

Interest on the opening CBUT will provide wrestling from Hong Kong at 11 p.m.

* * *

Davy Crockett is still around after having been killed at the Alamo. Last Wednesday, he was born again on CBUT at 7:30 p.m. APDT on

Super Circus features a return of Johnny Concho on KING-TV at 6. Bing and Gal Young are back on KING-TV at 6. Bing and Gal Young are back on KING-TV at 6. Bing and Gal Young are back

B.C. Cedar Builds Raft For Trans-Atlantic Voyage

MONTREAL (CP) — Four daring young men yesterday began construction of a raft which they hope will carry them across the Atlantic.

Henri Beaudout 28 captain of the raft, said the group has already obtained the lumber ... B.C. cedar ... and we have enough equipment to compose the raft itself.

"We have no other equipment other than that necessary to build our raft," he said in an interview.

"But although we need about $500 worth of sleeping, fishing and survival equipment including food, we have determined to make up our needs ... Montreal ... Lisbon per May 28.

Beaudout said his crew, Bernard Sourin, 24, navigator, Gaston Vanackere, 28, cameraman and Paul Lafontaine, 25, radio operator, hopes that Montreal ... will help them "breach the gap."

"We will have no other means of propulsion except the ... and the Gulf Stream," Beaudout said.

We expect to be about two months in the crossing. Our ... boat apart from some ... provisions will be put ... after ... the sea.

Army Mail Carrying Contraband?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Sun says Canadian army provost officers and RCMP are investigating in Vancouver and Tokyo a report that an organized ring is smuggling quantities of valuables into Canada through the army mails from Japan and Korea.

One report said that hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of goods had been slipped around the customs in the last three years by the smuggling ring, the newspaper says.

The Sun said it has learned that the possibility that narcotics have been among the contraband is being checked throughout.

BE BACK IN A COUPLE OF MINUTES, KEITH. I'M MEETING WHITEY OUTSIDE THE BUILDING
CAN'T SPEND TOO MUCH TIME WITH YOU, CHAMP. HERE'S SOME NAMES AND FIGURES I COPIED FROM ONE OF FLORIN'S BOOKS. IT MIGHT MEAN SOMETHING TO YOU, I DUNNO.

MARY WORTH

I KNOW SEPTEMBER IS DATING BRUCE EVERY NIGHT JUST TO BURN ME UP, GRANDMOTHER! ...AND I'LL NOT GIVE HER THE SATISFACTION OF KNOWING I CARE!
YOU'LL NEVER GET BACK TOGETHER BY BUILDING A WALL INSTEAD OF A BRIDGE, DENNIE!
AT THIS MOMENT, SEPTEMBER HERSELF IS RECEIVING SOME WELL-WEIGHED ADVICE...
YOU COULD BE QUITE WRONG ABOUT THE YOUNG MAN, MISS SMITH!
I'VE SPENT ENOUGH TIME WITH HIM TO BE FAIRLY SURE, MR. MARLBORO!
I STILL URGE YOU TO PROCEED CAUTIOUSLY! WE'D HATE TO LOSE OUR BEST DESIGNER!

LIL ABNER

EXCOOZE ME!! MAH FEET IS SO POWERFUL THEY GITS OUTA CONTROL SOMETIMES.!!

MIGHTY KIND OF YOU, POGO
DOG BONE! THEM IS A SCRAGGLY PAIR OF PANTS—SOME FOLK'S DON'T KNOW NOTHIN' 'BOUT TAKIN' CARE OF THEIR CLOTHES... IT'S A SIN AN' A SHAME AN' GOTTA STOP!
WHAT'S WRONG!?
I SAYS PEOPLE GOTTA STOP BEIN' BUMS!
RIGHT NOW? COULDN'T WE WAIT 'TIL MORNIN'?

FIP KIRBY

WILL YOU TAKE PERT TO THE HOTEL, FIP? I HAVE TO DIRECT THE UNLOADING OF THE ANIMALS.
ALL RIGHT, CARNO. SEE YOU LATER.
THERE'S THE CARNO K.O. NOW, SNAKE...
RIGHT! HOLD ON!
LOOK OUT, PERT!

REX MORGAN

YOU KNOW, DR. MORGAN ...I'VE BEEN IN THE HARDWARE BUSINESS ALL MY LIFE! I'M NOT A BRAGGART—BUT I KNOW THAT BUSINESS FROM 'A' TO 'Z'!
I'M SURE YOU DO, MR. HARPER!
HOWEVER, I KNOW NOTHING ABOUT BEING A CORONER!
IT REQUIRES A MEDICAL BACKGROUND!
AS A DOCTOR I'D BE PRETTY FOOLISH TO GO INTO THE HARDWARE BUSINESS!
ALL YOU'D LOSE WOULD BE YOUR MONEY!
BUT HAVING AN UNQUALIFIED PERSON IN THE POSITION OF CORONER MIGHT EVEN BE A RISK TO THE HEALTH OF A COMMUNITY!

JUDGE PARKER

IT'S RANDY PARKER, LARRY. HE'D LIKE TO KNOW IF YOU WANT HIM AND THE JUDGE TO TAKE YOU DOWN TO COURT WITH THEM THIS MORNING!
T...TAKE ME TO COURT?
HAVE YOU FORGOTTEN? YOUR CIVICS CLASS IS GOING TO SPEND THE MORNING IN JUDGE PARKER'S COURT!
OH YEAH ...I DID FORGET!
HI, RANDY! YES, THAT'LL BE SWELL IF YOU COULD PICK ME UP. I'LL BE WAITING OUT IN FRONT!

KERRY DRAKE

"BULLFROG"! IT'S COPS!
WE GOTTA HIDE THE OLD GUY!
YEAH! WHERE?
THERE'S NO PLACE IN THE APARTMENT THEY WON'T FIND HIM!
I GOTTA THINK!
OKAY, "BULLFROG"! DO YOU OPEN UP, OR DO I SHOOT THE LOCK OFF?

MR RUMBLES

JULIE JONES

HARDY—THINK IT'S WARM ENOUGH FOR SWIMMING?
IT'S ONLY MAY, EVE. YOU'LL CATCH YOUR DEATH OF COLD AT THIS TIME OF THE YEAR.
MAYBE—BUT HOW ELSE AM I GOING TO SHOW OFF THIS PERFECTLY STUNNING BATHING SUIT?
I STILL SAY—
REMEMBER, WHAT IT WAS YOU WERE GOING TO SAY, DARLING. BE RIGHT BACK!

Daily Astrology

BY RITA DEL MAR

SATURDAY, MAY 14, 1955

Today's quotation: "Any fool can tell the truth, but it requires a man of some sense to know how to lie well." Samuel Butler.

Saturday for everyone. Make tact and awareness your watchwords today. Do not permit yourself to be drawn into controversies or complications in connection with social activities or higher-ups.

Look for your birthdate and birthsign below:

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Hold to a policy of discretion with new acquaintances, lest you find yourself with a flattened bankroll.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Await a more decisive trend before getting behind major ventures. Be guarded, tactful.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Don't pursue the will-o'-the-wisp; be practical. Push tasks, duties.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Lend an ear to what people say early today; they can vitally affect your affairs and finances.

July 23 to August 22 (Leo)—Keep your perspective by staying in a straight course today. Be cautious; try to effect unity.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Restore vitality and bodily vigor. Side-step troubles of others.

September 23 to October 22 (Libra)—Be alert for true tidings, information. Resist the impulse to believe all you hear.

October 23 to November 21 (Scorpio)—Give persons around you ample time. Adopt an objective, responsible approach.

November 22 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Be willing to devote yourself unstintingly to details. Don't be pressed into important decisions.

December 22 to January 19 (Capricorn)—Plug up some leak in your financial setup. Take steps to negate stress.

January 20 to February 18 (Aquarius)—Get personal matters in hand; adopt a decisive but unemotional outlook on issues.

February 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Avoid individual or group involvements; use finesse. Wrap your program and aspirations in some secrecy.

Planning ahead—Good for sociability, entertainment, etc.: May 16, 18, 19, 23, 24, 25, 27.

Bomb Error, Einstein Felt

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel Prize winner for chemistry, last night said at a memorial to Dr. Albert Einstein that five months before his death the great physicist told him the "one great mistake" of his life was recommending to President Roosevelt that the atom bomb be made.

But Dr. Pauling said Dr. Einstein added that he felt some justification because of the danger the Germans might have the atom bomb first.

The bidding:

SOUTH	WEST	NORTH	EAST
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	All Pass

As will be seen from the accompanying diagram, North and South lacked one point of the 26 usually required to insure a play for game at a major suit or at no trump. That the game was made was due to good fortune and to excellent handling of the dummy's sparce entry cards.

West opened the jack of spades. East won the trick with the ace and continued the suit, removing one of dummy's all too few reentries. Now the careless declarer might waste the value of this entry by his haste to lead trump, but this South took advantage of the opportunity for North to lead by playing a low club and finessing the jack. One of the advantages of this play was that when West won with the queen he was in difficulty for a return lead. He selected the ace and eight of hearts. South carefully dropped an honor under West's ace, and so was able to hold the second heart trick with dummy's nine.

The next play was crucial. A diamond had to be led, of course. Which would you have chosen? South made the right choice. He led the queen and, when East ducked—his proper defence—South dropped the jack under it. Next dummy led the ten of diamonds. Again East refused to cover. Now, even if the king of diamonds were to drop on the next lead it would do declarer no good for he could not get back to dummy to cash the fourth diamond. So the diamond suit was abandoned and, with the lead still in dummy, South was able to take a second club finesse. When the ten held the trick, the contract was in the bag.

Note that South might have made the hand by reversing the order of his plays—playing the diamonds first and the clubs later. However, this would run the unnecessary risk that East had the heart ace and could give his partner a ruff of a third round of diamonds.

VAST LEAD-ZINC DEPOSIT TO BE DEVELOPED IN NORTH

Eat Your Troubles Away

Don't Drug Yourself To Sleep

Those who are undernourished and don't realize it will find a guide to better health and greater vigor in "Eat Your Troubles Away," latest work by Lelord Kordel, researcher and lecturer on nutrition, appearing regularly in The Daily Colonist.

BY LELORD KORDEL

There are millions who are tortured by insomnia. Are you one of those who must resort to various means—from counting sheep to the taking of sleeping tablets—to secure your needed rest?

Certainly a good many of you are familiar with this feeling of forlorn desperation. To see your night's rest snatched from your grasp . . . to face the approach of a new, hard day—without any rest—is torture indeed!

That is why, when I beheld the deep, hollow eye sockets and the mass of strain lines on the face of Mrs. M, I was not surprised to hear her say:

"I've tried everything to get to sleep."

Drugs Fail

She was a woman in her forties, but her older appearance was living proof of an incessant battle with insomnia.

"Drugs don't seem to help any more," she continued.

Investigating Mrs. M's complaint, I could see she had fallen into psychological reliance on drugs to put her to sleep, a reliance that often results in a form of chronic poisoning, a mild, continuous jag.

Sleep bought with drugs results in a morning stupor from which awakening is most difficult.

In most cases, sleeplessness can be traced to years of wrong, inadequate diet. The psychological habit-forming effect of sleeping pills must also be considered when insomnia is fought. That is why, along with suggesting a sleep-inducing diet, I filled Mrs. M's request for "something to take that would make me sleep."

I recommended that she purchase immediately high-potency organic calcium-mineral tablets and start taking them about one-half hour before she retired, swallowing them with a glass of buttermilk. This drink, with its high lactic-acid content, is helpful in itself.

I explained to Mrs. M she would have to include certain foods in her diet to build up the mineral deficiency that was robbing her of sleep.

Sleeping is controlled by a complex centre in the very depths of the brain. This sleep centre is regulated by the bloodstream — which delivers the only sleep inducers any healthy person ever needs. But it cannot "deliver the goods" if there is nothing to deliver.

Every time the mind sends out an action message to a muscle calcium is the essential element of one of the substances liberated at the nerve ends. Passing into the blood-

'Dead' Rocket Kills Three

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A supposedly "dead" target rocket was fired into life by an acetylene torch at Fort Bliss Friday, killing three men and seriously injuring three others.

The small Second World War rocket, used as an anti-aircraft target, was being dismantled when the torch ignited its propellant charge. The rocket screamed through a motor shop on its 110-yard flight, hitting the men as it went through the doorway.

Neutralized Germany 'Unrealistic'—Faure

PARIS (AP) — French Premier Edgar Faure came out Friday against the idea of a neutralized Germany as unrealistic. He said the proposed top-level conference of the Big Four should not halt West German rearmament.

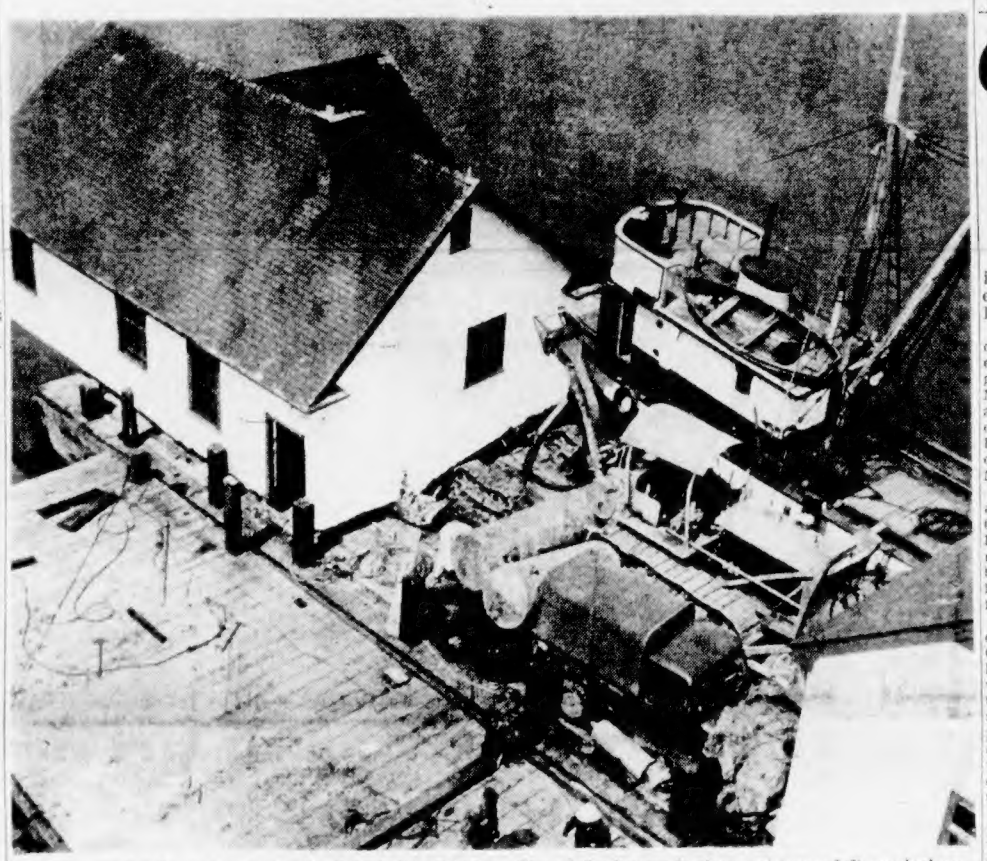
Some diplomatic observers believe Russia's consent to a neutralized Austria, under the independence treaty to be signed in Vienna Sunday, may be designed to prepare the way for a similar offer to Germany.

Though many Frenchmen, fearful of a rearmed Germany, might welcome such a development, Faure told a press conference:

"I don't think this idea is realistic and I haven't seen that it has been put in a form that could be discussed now. Even for Austria, it seems the idea of neutralization has not been kept in the way first suggested. In any case, the problem is different for a country of Germany's importance."

Faure saw a barrier to the reunification of Germany — a prime topic for the Big Four — in the existence of two Germanies in two different security systems. But he said it is not insurmountable.

Homes Away from Home



It was moving day yesterday for the Tingstad Logging Company. Two houses were loaded on a big scow and moved from old logging operations on Sidney Island to new operations on Minstrel Island, along with caterpillar tractor, truck and other equipment. One of the houses is shown at upper left perched on the edge of the scow. The scow, property of Eakins Construction, Sidney and Vancouver, was towed by a fishpacker owned and skippered by E. Plans Near Completion

Railway Into Wilderness May Lead to New Bonanza

OTTAWA (CP)—Northern Affairs Minister Lesage indicated Friday that plans are nearing completion for exploitation in northern Canada of one of the world's largest lead-zinc ore deposits.

He told the Commons during discussion of his department's estimates that he hopes the government and Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. will be able to make arrangements to develop the deposit, located at Pine Point on the south shore of Great Slave lake in the Northwest Territories.

The company estimates the area contains approximately 60,000,000 tons of lead-zinc ore. However, federal mining engineers say the deposit is much bigger. They say the company has drilled in excess of 500,000 feet to outline the ore body.

"We hope that the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company soon will see fit to have definite plans for the development and exploitation of this vast ore body," Mr. Lesage said. "We hope that it will be possible to work out with them some kind of understanding under which transportation facilities will be available to take the ore out."

Mr. Lesage said the present plan is to build a railway line—"in days not too far off"—from Grimshaw, end of steel in Alberta's Peace River area, to Pine Point, a distance of 300 to 400 miles. A railway would be the cheapest form of transportation in this area.

"We . . . still are discussing the economic implications of such a project," he said.

Federal mines officials said construction of a rail line to Pine point also would permit exploitation of other mineral resources in the Great Slave lake area, including copper. Other possible resources included gas west of Pine Point and oil west of Hay River.

Mr. Lesage disagreed with Opposition Leader Drew that the first step in the development of Canada's North should be to populate the area.

Mr. Drew said he was amazed to hear the minister say Thursday night that there must be jobs in the North before people will go there. If Canada's pioneers had waited for jobs to become available, Mr. Drew said, the Prairies would never have been developed.

"But there is a difference between the opening up of the West and the opening up of the North . . . Our forefathers could go to the West with this new means of transportation, (the CPR) open up the country and settle on farms with no more than their bare hands."

"The populating of the north is not an aim in itself; it is secondary," he said. "Really, it comes after the development of the immense natural resources."

Daughter Dies

Woman, Mother Leap from Train

NEW YORK (AP)—A young mother plunged to her death from a Chicago-New York express train Friday. Her mother disappeared from the train about the same time.

Hours later, state police found the mother, Celia Freeman, 56, of New York, wandering along a highway near the railroad—dirty, dishevelled and incoherent.

The daughter, about 20, later was identified as Ruth Papazian.

The mother and daughter boarded the train at East Cleveland. Trainmen said that as the train sped down the Hudson valley from Albany, N.Y., they restrained the pair several times from opening outside vestibule doors.

South of Poughkeepsie, a train attendant found a vestibule door open. Moments later another door was found open, on the opposite side of the train and in another car.

Just then a lounge car attendant at the rear of the train glanced out and saw a woman, who proved to be young Mrs. Papazian, sprawled alongside the tracks. Police quickly located the mortally injured girl. She died in hospital.

The mother was found later.

Ship Loses Propellor

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The Liberty ship Ss Flora C. of New York, lost her propellor in heavy seas 68 miles south of San Francisco Friday and the Coast Guard said it had failed to find the ship at her last reported position.

Atomic Submarine — Moon Reservations

Fiction Was Stranger than Truth

PARIS (Reuters) — Writers and scientists from all over the world are to gather in Paris May 25 to pay homage to Jules Verne, the father of modern science-fiction, who died 50 years ago.

They will come from every one of the 82 countries into whose languages Verne's 104 books have been translated. They will commemmorate one of the most famous explorers — who hardly ever left his armchair.

Scarcely a forecast by the bearded novelist has failed to materialize since he died in 1905 at 77.

The United States Navy last year named its first atomic submarine after the underwater craft Nautilus which figured in his book "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea."

Airliners now circle the globe in less than a week, far surpassing the exploit of Verne's British explorer, Phileas Fogg, in "Round the World in 80 Days."

An American travel agency is already accepting bookings for the first return trip from the earth to the moon, predicted by Jules Verne in "Round the Moon."

In 1839, as a lad of 11, Verne smuggled himself aboard a schooner bound from the Breton port on Mantes for the Indies. Verne's quest was a coral necklace for his sweetheart.

But his father was waiting for him at the ship's first port of call, a few miles along the Atlantic coast. There, Jules' first venture into the unknown ended with a good whipping.

"I shall only travel in my dreams in future,' he declared ruefully. And before he set foot abroad, he was to travel around the earth thousands of times in his imagination in the comfort of his study.

Unlike most writers of science-fiction, Verne based his predictions on careful calculations, which he constantly checked with French scholars. The writings of one of his helpers, mathematician Joseph Bertrand, who discovered differential calculus, today line the bookshelves of the U.S. submarine Nautilus.

South Africans Organizing To Protest New Voting Curb

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Protest meetings were being organized Friday against the South African government's new move to reduce the voting rights of mixed-blood (colored) voters in Cape province.

At the same time, Finance Minister Eric Louw assailed Adlai Stevenson, U.S. Democratic party leader, for his criticism of the government's entire racial segregation program.

Stevenson expressed the hope in Johannesburg last Sunday that South Africans will "take heed lest fear lead them along the wrong path" in their treatment of the non-white population.

Speaking at Williston in Cape province Friday night, Louw retorted: "Such interference in our affairs by a distinguished visitor after a stay of only one week in Johannesburg makes a very unfortunate impression."

He said Stevenson had heard only one side of the country's political problems which "certainly does not qualify him" to air views on the government's program.

The new bill of Premier Johannes Strijdom aimed at removing mixed-blood voters from the white electoral roll will be debated in the lower house May 23, it was announced Friday.

Meantime, the opposition was reported organizing a country-wide campaign against the bill.

The bill proposes to increase the Senate from 48 to 89 members. This would ensure the government the two-thirds majority of both House of Parliament required by the constitution to alter voting rights of the mixed-blood voters.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UP) — Letters two feet high appeared recently on a wall of the Johannesburg public library, restricted to whites, saying: "Let us black folks read." Words were ordered removed. Solvents were ineffective; letters finally were sandblasted off. But Friday there was new lettering in the same place saying: "We black folks ain't reading yet."

Beat Your Bride . . . — . . . Or She'll Kill You

Danger Lurks at Devil's Gate in Year of Fire Horse

TOKYO (UP)—So yesterday was Friday the 13th. You think it's unlucky? Come to Japan and you'd feel lucky if Friday the 13th was all you had to worry about.

In Japan every day is unlucky if you're facing northeast, for instance.

The ancient land of Nippon is as full of superstitions as it is of people.

Northeast is the direction of the "Devil's Gate."

It's such a bad direction that for 1,200 years a special prayer has been uttered every year by 100 priests in Kyoto to pacify the northeast.

A husband told his wife they needed an extra room on their tiny house for their two growing daughters.

The mother consulted the "Fox God" and was told not to build for six months or risk disaster. So the family went on living like sardines.

Girls born in the year of the "Fire Horse" are doomed to spinsterhood. Such women, ancient sages say, are as wild as horses and very likely to kill any man who marries them.

Fortunately, the "Fire Horse" year comes up only once every 60 years.

For a man to beat his bride guarantees the best of luck. It promises her many children.

Four is the unlucky number. It's pronounced "she" in Japanese, the same way the word for "death" is pronounced.

A bullfinch brings good luck to its owner. Bullfinches are sold once a year in a special Tokyo shrine. If the bird tricks its owner and brings bad luck instead of good, he can return it to the altar and get a new one free.

The dangerous age for men is 42, for women 33. Those are years of calamity. Some people, when they reach those ages, spend most of the year in a temple praying for survival.

Priests in one ancient temple own more than 200 fans measuring six and a half feet in length. In case of fire, each priest grabs a fan and waves it madly shouting, "Confusion to the sparks!"

They claim they extinguished fires that way in 1876 and 1926.

Japanese children once held a special ceremony in memory of departed insects. They felt sorry for the butterflies they had captured and impaled in their collections. After the ceremony, the children said they slept better.

And Geisha girls go to temples once a year to pray for the souls of departed cats that furnished the catgut for the strings of their musical instruments.

No Chemistry About It

It's all in finger co-ordination, says Dr. Peter Mar, centre, as he demonstrates the finer art of consuming chop suey with chop sticks. Receiving professional instruction are Les Spencer, left, and Miss Catherine Windeyer, who were guests at a banquet held by the Vancouver Island branch of the Chemical Institute of Canada, last night at CAC Gardens. Ticket Threat

VANCOUVER (CP) — City prosecutor Stewart McMorran said Friday he has been instructed to prosecute all sales of advance tickets this year outside the Pacific National Exhibition grounds.

Mr. McMorran told the police commission he obtained clarification of the attorney-general's instructions during a recent visit to Victoria.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said in January that the government intended to enforce the law regarding lotteries.

Development Gap Assailed

OTTAWA (CP) — Howard Green (PC, Vancouver Quadra) Friday accused the government of leaving a big gap in Canada's development by allowing the wartime fleet of deep-sea vessels to fade away.

A husband told his wife they needed an extra room on their tiny house for their two growing daughters.

The mother consulted the "Fox God" and was told not to build for six months or risk disaster. So the family went on living like sardines.

Girls born in the year of the "Fire Horse" are doomed to spinsterhood. Such women, ancient sages say, are as wild as horses and very likely to kill any man who marries them.

Fortunately, the "Fire Horse" year comes up only once every 60 years.

For a man to beat his bride guarantees the best of luck. It promises her many children.

Four is the unlucky number. It's pronounced "she" in Japanese, the same way the word for "death" is pronounced.

A bullfinch brings good luck to its owner. Bullfinches are sold once a year in a special Tokyo shrine. If the bird tricks its owner and brings bad luck instead of good, he can return it to the altar and get a new one free.

The dangerous age for men is 42, for women 33. Those are years of calamity. Some people, when they reach those ages, spend most of the year in a temple praying for survival.

Priests in one ancient temple own more than 200 fans measuring six and a half feet in length. In case of fire, each priest grabs a fan and waves it madly shouting, "Confusion to the sparks!"

They claim they extinguished fires that way in 1878 and 1926.

Japanese children once held a special ceremony in memory of departed insects. They felt sorry for the butterflies they had captured and impaled in their collections. After the ceremony, the children said they slept better.

And Geisha girls go to temples once a year to pray for the souls of departed cats that furnished the catgut for the strings of their musical instruments.
